CLARLA BOARD

DRIVE AND DORMITORIES

The Future Muhlenberg

REV. J. C. RAUSCH.

MUHLENBERG will grow. It requires no dreamer to foretell this. On the contrary, those who look back to the Muhlenberg of a few years ago, and now behold the present, feel like exclaiming: "We are like those that dream." The all pervasive "Muhlenberg Spirit," deep feeling, good judgment, earnest wishes, and general activity, now visible make the prognosis easy; for these are factors that insure a future glory even if nothing extraordinary should happen. Nor does it require exceptional powers of discernment to recognize these abstract elements of our Alma Mater's vigor, for we see them personified in a healthy student body earnestly striving to attain high ideals, in a capable and aggressive faculty unselfishly devoted to the highest interests of the College, in an active Board of Trustees and its Executive Committee, in a real Athletic Association and its Trustees, in loyal Alumni and true friends in touch with the work, and above all in our deservedly honored and esteemed President for whom all who know him have the highest regard.

It is no dream that four new halls will be added to the Dormitories this year which will then show us half the size of the Quadrangle as it will appear when completed. Who can tell how soon the other half may be built? That will mean about four hundred students in Muhlenberg. It is likewise a certainty that the Preparatory School, which may cost about one-hundred thousand dollars, will be erected this year on the Mosser field south of the new Commons. These buildings will necessitate the erection of a new Heat, Light and Power Plant which will probably be located at the foot of the hill. This change in turn will provide more space for the chemical laboratory and with a little extra expense furnish new quarters for the physical laboratory. The Biological Department will then occupy all of the present Physical Department in the Administration Building. This arrangement will permit sufficient expansion until some good friend or friends, perhaps some alumnus, will present us with a complete MODERN SCIENCE BUILDING.

A Gymnasium would adorn our grounds, no doubt, by this time, but for the untimely death of one of the best friends the boys of Muhlenberg ever had. We all feel the need of such a building, the Athletic Association has thought and planned, but thus far the decision has always been that other things were just as needful and more within the range of our resources. Some day we will decide differently and the action of the Athletic Board in that event can easily be judged by its record in the past. If one could always do as one feels and thinks, the friends of the boys would no doubt vie with one another for the privilege of erecting the Gymnasium.

An Alumni Hall providing a social center with a large Auditorium, a Hundred Thousand Dollar Library Building, a College Chapel in keeping with the dignity of our school, sufficient Endowment to expand the Courses we now have and to add others, which we already have in mind, but may not yet mention, these and many other things may now seem fanciful, and the watch-dogs may scent extravagance; but the day will surely come when nothing will be too good for old Muhlenberg and her boys, and their faithful professors, for friends and alumni will decree it.

You say, "How long? We can hardly wait." Who will be the happier, the boys and the professors who may some day realize all this or those who helped along, watched the growth, and grew with it? We may have just a little to do with this earnestly desired growth and splendor, we may feel like the fly that "sat upon the axle of the chariot wheel and said, 'My, what a dust I do raise;'" but it is exhilarating and some satisfaction to feel that one is moving along and that the dust is being raised.

One other hope we would yet express. May high ideals ever keep us humble and lowly in heart, and may the democratic spirit that now prevails never be vitiated by the breath of snobbery. May Muhlenberg's greatest glory ever be a line of noble sons who going out into the world help to solve life's problems, to feed the hungry, clothe the naked, visit the sick, shelter the stranger, train the young, and foster all lawful occupations, all pure arts and useful knowledge, so that the Lord may crown all with His blessing.

Prof. Clement A. Marks, Mus.D.

MUSICAL DIRECTOR

PROF. CLEMENT A. MARKS, director of the Euterpean Club Oratorio Society, Professor of Music at Muhlenberg College, leader in the musical circles of the city, died October 23, 1912. Dr. Marks was born in Lower Macungie Township, Lehigh County, in 1864. He attended the public schools adjacent to his home, and the knowledge thus acquired was supplemented by attendance at the preparatory school of Muhlenberg College. At the same time he began his musical education under the instruction of Prof. C. F. Hermann, with whom he continued for six years. He then went to Philadelphia, where he completed his education as director, instructor and organist. At the age of fourteen years he was organist of the Moravian Church at Emaus, and after serving in that capacity for six years, was elected organist of Zion Reformed Church, Allentown, where he remained five years. In 1891 he was elected organist of St. John's Lutheran Church, Allentown, and served that congregation continuously to the time of his death, a period of more than a score of years, during which he brought the choir of the congregation up to a high state of efficiency, serving as organist in the Sunday School as well as in the Church. In 1909 he was accorded the degree of Doctor of Music, and in the same year was appointed instructor in music at Muhlenberg College. Here he instructed the Glee Club, and aided them greatly in their work. He was President of the State Music Teachers' Association.

In 1887 the Euterpean Club was organized in Allentown, with forty male voices, and Dr. Marks was selected Director. Six years later the name of the organization was changed to the Euterpean Club-Oratorio Society, which is now composed of upward of two hundred mixed voices. Under the direction of Dr. Marks this organization reached a high standard, and its reputation spread beyond the borders of the State, adding to the laurels of the director as he added to its efficiency. The success and prominence attained by the Society is directly attributable to the ability of Dr. Marks, and the great interest he showed in its work from the inception until his death brought his labors to a close.

At the death of Dr. Marks resolutions of respect were passed by the faculty and students of Muhlenberg College.

The burial service was held in St. John's Lutheran Church on Saturday, October 26, 1912. The faculty of Muhlenberg College attended in a body and the students were represented by forty of their number. Interment was made privately in Fairview Cemetery.

On Sunday, December 17, memorial services were held in St. John's Lutheran Church, at which service the President of Muhlenberg College delivered the following address:

Doctor Marks, the Man of Ideals.

Whenever men meet to do honor to one they knew and loved there rises first the note of sadness. In it the soul sings:

"I cannot see the features right
When on the gloom I strive to paint
The face I knew; the hues are faint
And mix with hollow masks of night."

But when, after days have passed and the first fresh grief is conquered, we look again and find a deeper picture and a better estimate if we have learned by grace to say:

"Peace, come away; the song of woe is after all an earthly thing."
In the spirit of peace then and looking to the coming of the Prince of Peace we have gathered to remember the life, which has passed beyond our ken.

As we knew our beloved brother and friend, Dr. Clement Marks, his life's work and character cannot be characterized more fitly than by viewing him as the "Man of Ideals."

Ideals are more, greater and better than purposes. Few are the lives which idly drift and ask not whither. Some purpose dominates most men. It may be an immediate aim and a nearby goal, for frequently the distant view and the far off fulfillment do not attract and charm, but at any rate it is a goal. But the goal and purpose may be mean; they may be among the multitude and amid the crowd. Purpose, aim and determination are not sufficient for the man of leadership and power. He looks up to the mountain, though its height seems unattainable. His wagon is hitched to the distant star. Not what appears immediately practicable, but the apparently unreachable moves him. In the eternal truth, in the everlasting beauty and harmony, in the final good, he believes though all might doubt. The man of ideals does not descend to what is, but ascends to what might be, because it must be though thousands have no vision. The man of ideals is the seer of the unseen, and he makes others see his visions. The shadows are pierced by him and he reaches beyond the passing phenomena into the realm where truth is and beauty lives, and goodness is enthroned forever.

If we ask in what manner the noble ideals of music were grasped and made vital by our friend, it is necessary first of all, fairly, soberly and justly to estimate his true place in his art. The man of ideals is beyond all other things, conscious of his place and path. The very height of his ideals makes him neither presumptuous nor boastful, but honest. It was not given to our brother to be among the very few of highest genius in art, who by creative force, imagination and inspiration, enrich the world by original works of ever living beauty. But while Dr. Marks was no great creative musician, he was nevertheless among the favored few, who possess the subtle strength to interpret the great masters. So Clement Marks' music was not a profession followed for the sake of bread and butter. It was an art which asks only to be wooed for its own sake. To interpret this art to others and to make the soul of melody speak in harmony was his life. He had realized the absoluteness of art, not only in its length, but in its height. No greater joy was his than without question of reward and at a self-sacrifice to reproduce through the medium of the human voice, which he so ably trained and developed, the greatest and best masterpieces of all ages. To the ability of the capable teacher of singing, to the enthusiastic leadership of a great chorus, he added the skill of the artist, who instructed and taught all, what the art of music means. Whether it was the pure liquidity of tone in Palestrina, or the mighty chorus of the oratorio, or the rich and full harmony of the chorals, or the simple song—all were interpreted with power, insight, intellectual breadth and with depth of feeling. Dr. Marks could not bear a pretentious dilettantism, which misled the untutored and lived for temporary applause. His soul was stirred to its depths when any other consideration but the purity of the highest ideals of art were to determine music. Although not opposed to the plainer note of humbler artists, he could and justly would not suffer the merely ephemeral and popular, because it vitiated and degraded musical taste. And this degradation as he rightly saw, might have grave religious and moral consequences. Therefore, in church and concert hall he strove unswervingly for the best art.

Out of his ideals for art grew his love for the classic. It was the great classic musicians and composers whom he most revered, loved and studied. It is true that he was no narrow worshiper of the classic in all its ways, for he had no patience with the weakness of classicism. While he loved its permanence and its clear and fixed principles, its lofty aim, its shadows of the unchanging, he did not follow its traditionalism and uncharitableness. He was not the slave of one master or school, but kept the freedom of romantic sentiment without its individualistic vagaries and its proud egotism. For this very attitude he was true to ideals, the ideals of a free man in his art, and yet an humble pupil of all the greatest masters.

The ideals of our friend were centered about his one art. All true ideals in human life must have a centre of intellect and will. Not a disjointed and ununified mass of ideals make the true man. Now the unity of the ideals of Dr. Marks was the unity in diversity of the height and depth of the excellence of the art of music. But with this constant attention to this one art he combined a breadth of view and interest which made all knowledge contributory to its understanding and more vital presentation. As few musicians he realized the relation of music to painting and sculpture, architecture and literature. He knew the lives of the great musicians in relation to their age. A constant student he touched vitally the life of the student under him, not only by his living and his ready, full and thorough knowledge of his own subject, but also by the breadth of his learning and sympathy. Despite the meagre education of his early years he became a broad man and commended constantly the necessity of the cultural course in college. While his life was spent near the place of his birth, he was not provincial, but universal. This community gradually valued him at his real worth. Some of the most choice spirits, men and women of high and distinct culture estimated him highly, not merely for his sparkling and ready wit, but much more for his conversational power in which knowledge old and new was used to interest and charm his listeners. And back of all was the magnetism of a real personality with fidelity to great ideals.

There was not wanting in his life the ideal of unending work. He was not only a faithful teacher, who performed his many duties faithfully and punctually, but he also employed every spare moment as a student. He attacked boldly the most difficult problems. In the very last year of his life he began to read some deep philosophical books. His was that rare unsatiable thirst for knowledge and truth. It is a pity that in our American life we are still so backward that men of talent must squander much of their time in the treadmill of trivial performance, instead of being furnished the leisure for greater things. When a man arises with high ideals he falls victim to his just love of intellectual growth because of the manifoldness of other demands necessary for the material support. The constant self-development for the blessings of others with untold sacrifice of time and money is the mark of a true ideal. It is not surprising that out of a life like this there should come the desire for prolongation because there was so much to do.

"So many worlds, so much to do.
So little done, such things to be."

But as time forbids to name all the ideals of our friend, we must come to our final ideal. It is natural in a man of such breadth, that he could conceive of nothing narrow.

Thus he held to the ideas of religion and the faith of his church in that generous vital manner, which has charity for all. His desire and outlook were of the largest in reference to his church, to which he freely gave his services in more than one direction. But the thing to glory in, is that his art did not make him, as is the case with some musicians, an irresponsible Bohemian, a disregardful egoist, a worshiper of mere art and a rejector of art's highest aim in religion. He lived not for laurels but for truth. His life was not divorced from faith and love and hope. And we found him so lovable and so genial, because the great motive of his character, and the last source of his service to men, was his religious conviction. He was an idealist in the finest sense because he was a believer. Thus did he realize what is the undercurrent of Tennyson's song when he says:

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul according well,
May make one music as before, but vaster."

SENIOR HISTORY

SOON, too soon for us all, Commencement Day will cause our class to sever her connection as a body with our dear Alma Mater. The seemingly difficult problems of College will be replaced by the real difficulties of actual life and we must meet these issues as best we can.

Our class has had a strange but a uniformly pleasant history. As freshmen we showed that worn out traditions and customs were to be set at naught and have held to that purpose consistently. In this respect the class of 1913 has set a new standard which could well be emulated by succeeding classes. The new style of year book was due solely to the enterprise and willingness of 1913 to sacrifice time and money for the good of our beloved college. Hearty co-operation alone achieved that measure of success of which we are justly proud.

The members of the faculty have always been able to rely upon our active support in any movement toward raising the ideals of the student body and inculcating in them that fine sense of personal honor which should be characteristic of every cultured man. The stay of our class at Muhlenberg has been unique in the uniformly amicable relations existing between the faculty and members of the class.

In all student activities 1913 has always done her full share and may feel a glow of satisfaction at the splendid record of her men in athletics, dramatics, glee club, journalism and especially in the high standard of scholarship maintained throughout her stay at Muhlenberg.

And now—farewell. With saddened serious hearts we leave our Nourishing Mother of the past four years, confident that the lessons she has taught us will aid materially in life's hard battle. With "Greater Muhlenberg" as our slogan we will always have uppermost in our minds as we go about our daily task, "Forward" into the future!

CLASS SONG

Tune—"Auld Lang Syne"

Now comrades stand
Draw close the band
Of friendship, honor, trust.
Let every year
Make truth more dear
And drive away distrust.

Chorus.

Now gather 'round the Blue and Gold,
As loyal sons and true;
The spirit fostered in that fold,
You'll never, never rue.

United now,
With plighted vow,
We'll all stand staunch and true
And sing a song
Of victories won
Around our Gold and Blue.

Now hand in hand
Go forth a band
With strength increased each year;
Prepare to meet
And turn defeat
We never shall know fear.

Chorus.

Come gather 'round the Blue and Gold,
Ye loyal sons and true
Create a spirit in that fold,
We'll never, never rue.

Chorus.

Stand 'round our banner brave and bold
As loyal sons and true
The spirit fostered in that fold
We'll never, never rue.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

AS FRESHMEN

IT was the opening day of college of the year nineteen hundred and ten; the first event of the history of the class of 1914, happened in this wise: "Hey Freshies, now let's all stick together, and right after the opening exercises, we'll hustle up to the hall on the third floor and get organized." "All right, we'll be on the job," came the answer. The curtain had risen, in the story of another class which had come to these halls full of hope and expectancy as many have done in years past, and will continue to do in years to come. The posters, with which the Sophs attempted to decorate the town, were still wet with fresh paste when they vanished and were seen no more.

The day of the bowl fight came around and on the gridiron facing each other, stood the two lines of greasy men—stripped to the waist. The whistle blew and the first half was on—a half which ended victoriously for us. The two classes withdrew and again the shrill signal—and the final period had started—a period in which organization showed its power over superior strength and spirit—and we withdrew without the laurels—but with the confidence that comes from a struggle well fought though lost.

A little later, and the gridiron was a witness to a second contest. The elevens of '13 and '14 were preparing for the annual football game. "We'll be 'ever advancing' toward those goal posts," bellowed the Sophs. "We'll 'conquer or die,'" resounded the Freshies, and they looked it as they faced a team which had worked together many times before. The supporters of '13 who were betting on a 30-0 score, were cheated when the teams withdrew, and they saw that their prophecy had dwindled to 5-0. The Sophs had won again—yet we were proud—and justly so—of the fight we put up against big odds.

"Sophomores dined without their Tuxedos," appeared in the newspaper headlines one day in February, and we the insignificant Freshies grinned—only this, and nothing more. What did we know about it! Besides, why should we mention this fact at all since "this trifling matter, however, did not interfere with the banquet?"

June came, the year was over and '14 was glad that she was successful, that she had been a factor in athletics, and all the varied activities and that she stood high in scholarship. Commencement had come and with it came the first dispersal—a parting bright with the future outlook, when we should return.

AS SOPHOMORES

And return we did, to the duties incident to the care of little ones. Freshmen thou shalt never know how our hearts yearned after thee—how we sought to direct thee. Harshly thou saidst—but was it not wisely?

In passing we can barely mention our easy and complete victory on poster night, in the bowl fight, and on the gridiron. We must say, however, that we regret that the opposition offered us was so weak.

The year progressed—we published a calendar—we issued football programs—the first ones. We had a feast and card party just after Christmas, and then came our Sophomore banquet. "There's always fair weather when good fellows get together." And what a night that was. We shall not soon forget it, the good spirit, the clean fellowship. It is such happy events that we shall cherish and inevitably recall at later reunions.

The second was passing rapidly, again we had done all in our power along all lines for the glory of greater Muhlenberg. At its close we parted conscious that already one-half of our sojourn here was history and that we would return.

AS JUNIORS

The third year found us taking an active interest and not a part in poster night, bowl fight and football game. We had returned as upper class-men, such things were supposed beneath us, but many of us thought with regret that we had entered upon the second half of our college life. Certainly a regret mingled with pleasure, for the position of an upper classman is enjoyable and the responsibilities it brings are well worth while, but how short, how very short, are these four years of happy life.

No, we would not be Freshmen again. We are glad we are Juniors, but we pause for a moment to think of the pleasures that are so rapidly slipping by.

And now the middle of our third year is upon us. We are holding offices in the various organizations; we have men on the teams; and more than ever are keenly alive to the demands made upon us by loyalty to our Alma Mater. We are striving to issue a Ciarla that shall mirror the growing enthusiasm of this campus and we hope that future classes shall make every effort to support this our best endeavor.

Occasionally in after life we of this class of 1914 shall take our Ciarla from its shelf and what memories it shall call up—the work and the play, the failures and the successes, pleasures and disappointments that we experienced shoulder to shoulder.

ELMER H. BAUSCH
LYNNVILLE, LEHIGH CO., PA.

*"Yet had his aspect nothing of severe,
But such a face as promised him sincere."*

"Elmerus Bauschurus."

Born at Lynnville, Pa., Sept. 5, 1892. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered college as Freshman, September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. ΔΘ Fraternity. Class Treasurer (2). Class Vice President (3). Assistant Business Manager "The Muhlenberg" (3). Assistant Varsity Football Manager (3). Treasurer A. P. S. Club (3). Business Manager The Ciarla (3). M. C. A. Classical Club. Progressive. Lutheran. Law.

First in the class if not in scholarship, at least in the alphabetical arrangement stands Elmer H. Bausch. Sometimes the benefit of the doubt is given to the man who does not say much, so Bausch is given the credit for knowing a good deal more than he says. To put it mildly, the subject of this sketch is not over loquacious. He has been known to speak for five consecutive minutes in a political argument. History is his favorite study, consequently, when Bausch and History meet, conversation does not lag.

We cannot pass by without a word about Elmerus' career as a salesman in Williamsport last summer, for it contributed much to the masterful handling of college offices given him. His talent seems to lie in managerial ability, and recently he has entered the arena of activity with startling suddenness. Opportunity, it has been said, makes a man, and when Bausch found himself elected to three managements, he calmly pulled himself together, said nothing, but successfully applied to his newly acquired duties that latent energy which he had long stored up.

His thirst for knowledge is not a mad one, but he pursues it with that calm composure and gentle ease with which he is happily endowed. In Latin, however, he has received and acquired a thorough training, not because he so desired, but because his name stood first on the class roll. Whenever the Professor of Latin was at a loss where to start, he invariably began at the head of the list, thus giving our hero frequent and unexpected opportunities to recite.

Nevertheless, all things seem to work out for the best, and he will be able to make good use of the Latin vocabulary in his chosen profession, law. We can foresee that as a lawyer he must eventually end up as a manager of some corporation, where silence is highly valued and ability well compensated.

RALPH P. BIEBER
ALLENTOWN, PA.

"Come not within the measure of my wrath."

"Bieb."

Born at Hellertown, Pa., May 9, 1894. Prepared at Hellertown High School. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Ciarla Staff Artist. Class Baseball Team (2). Woodrow Wilson Club. Classical Club. Beni Levi Club. Lutheran. Teaching.

In the person before us, we see one whose early environment, contrary to the expectation of many, seems not to have had a harmful effect upon him; in other words, some persons imagine that Hellertown is an unfavorable place for the development of high qualities. In answer, we can only point to the honorable character and the thorough-going good natured energy of our friend Bieber. He is one of the artists whose work appears on these pages, and no one can deny that it bears distinct marks of ability.

Bieber occasionally becomes very sleepy. When he is under the influence of these spells he sits in the reading room and sleeps and dreams. His classmates have even found it necessary to place a pile of books upon his back in order to insure for him a pleasant sleep and to prevent him from suddenly jumping up and disturbing the peace generally found there. He has been known to fall into a trance-like slumber, and if you want to do him a favor and wake him out of the said slumber, which, by the way, is a very difficult thing to do and always takes two or three vigorous attempts, he grunts, and if you continue to disturb him his favorite expression, "Gald ding et," is bound to burst forth.

When Bieber came to college he was an avowed woman hater, but it appears that he has received further light on the subject, talks more of it and brings a fair dame out to lectures and football games—a sign of changed viewpoint.

Outside of a few minor faults, Bieber is not a bad fellow at all. He is one of the few at college who can truthfully say that they have never touched tobacco. In respect to age and size our friend is the infantus of the class, but in spite of that fact, in his Soph year held the coveted honor of Prince of the Water Throwers (in a place where it harmed no one). As a good student should always have his lessons well prepared, this gentleman has tried to excel, particularly in Public Speaking, although he claims never yet to have seen the value of a Concrete Basis.

Some day there will be another illustrious name on the scroll of famed pedagogues, and his success will be marked because his studious and abstemious habits, coupled with a pleasing disposition, will insure it.

DAVID H. BUCKS

LEOLA, PA.

"Dav," "Buck."

"A lion among ladies is a most dreadful thing."

Born at Leola, Pa., January 6, 1891. Prepared at Franklin and Marshall Academy. Entered college September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Class Treasurer (1). Secretary Classical Club (2). "Muhlenberg" Staff (3). Ciarla Staff Artist. Lancaster County Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Class Football (1, 2). Class Track (1, 2). Class Baseball (1, 2). College Track Squad (1, 2). Two Mile Record (1912). Progressive Democrat. Lutheran. Ministry.

Behold the countenance that betrays no vice but confidence in himself, no joy but delight in others' happiness, no pain but sorrow for others, and no grief but sympathy in the misfortunes of his fellow men. David seems to have had enough of Lancaster by the completion of his preparatory school course. At any rate, Muhlenberg was the college of his choice.

Buck is interested in athletics, but especially in track. By careful, persistent practice and training, he has developed into a good long distance runner. His ability may be judged by the fact that last year he entered three races and was the easy winner of them all. Indeed, none of us would be surprised if he should start cross-country running between here and Philipsburg, the scene of his aluminum activities during his last vacation.

Our friend is a student, so much so that many times he spends all his energy in the preparation of his lessons, and consequently must report sick on the following day. The fact that this happened often on heavy days, led us to draw this conclusion. However that may be, he has found time to contribute a number of excellent drawings to this book.

His great weakness is his love for the gentle sex, of which, we are told, even the fairest fall an easy victim to his winning smile. Let that pass.

We may not forget to mention Dav's voice which is a howling success, whether it be on the side-lines, to encourage the football team in the mock battles of practice, or when the issues of war are to be decided in regular games—he's there and is always heard. Dav has decided that he will enter the ministry when he shall have completed his college and seminary training, and there is no question in our mind but that he will have good use for that stentorian voice to strike terror into the hostile ranks of the Evil One.

DAVID C. COOK
SPRING CITY, PA.

*"—Then jolly and free
Like a blithe bird I'll be."*

"Scaldy Bill."

Born at Spring City, June 21, 1892. Prepared at Spring City High School. Entered College September, 1910. Sophronia L.S. $\Lambda\Gamma\Omega$ Fraternity. Class Football (1, 2). Class Basketball (1, 2). Class Track (1, 2). Varsity Track (1, 2). Football Squad (1, 2). Lutheran. Progressive. Teaching.

Behold ye mortals with a highly developed aesthetic sense. The accompanying photograph is noted in this vicinity as the best possible model for artists who desire to reproduce the saintly expression of St. Paul, either for mural or church window decorations. Like the apostle, "Davy" writes some epistles but generally to citizens of Spring City. Grant that you don't know where Spring City is, neither do we, but Dave was born there and has always lived there (and will doubtless "shuffle off this mortal coil" in that vicinity). Somebody has casually remarked that her father is in the stove business in that city (?). We think that will be a particularly good line for a Cook to follow.

"Scaldy Bill" is a peculiar mixture of joys and glooms, in fact he has as many moods as a Greek verb. There is joy in the upper story of Rhoad's Hall when "Scaldy" is picking out the latest rag time on his mandolin. But should Cook chance to miss breakfast, or should the slightest circumstances mar his pleasure in any way, the gloom will be so thick that it can only be cut with a sharp knife.

Dave is a good all around fellow. His long legs enable him to sprint at a fast gait and clear the hurdles when he does not take a notion to run around them. The same legs served him well in his first two years at college on the scrub football team, in class basketball and in track. He sings a good second bass on the Glee Club and enjoys himself thoroughly. His favorite trips are to East Greenville and Myerstown, where he was most delightfully entertained.

Of his fondness for Mathematics, the Elizabethan drama, and stories of the founding of Allentown, we can only make mention here. Suffice it to say Dave has learned much at Muhlenberg and expects to take his Ph.D. at Yale.

EDGAR CROUTHAMEL
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

"Ed," "Crouty," "Bloody Ed."

"A woman's heart I shall never break."

"Behold the virtue first in his face."

Born in Philadelphia, February 22, 1888. Prepared at Evening Central High School, Philadelphia, and Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Eutropea L.S. Vice President (3). Editor-in-Chief of Ciarla. Class Football (1, 2). Class Track (1). College Track Squad (1, 2, 3). Quaker City Club (1, 3). Woodrow Wilson Club. Lutheran. Ministry.

Hello! Who comes there? Bloody Edgar. Admit him. Thus we are introduced to our classmate, the Editor of the CIARLA from the City of Brotherly Love.

His predominant trait, seriousness, permeates all his college life from chapel services to athletic activities. But let's stop to breathe, why? Oh! Edgar is an exponent of deep breathing and it will please him. Did you hear that rushing blast as the passing of a mighty wind? Never mind, Edgar was only taking one of his frequent breathing exercises which are attempts to force a little more than his share of ozone through his respiratory organs. During his first year at college, he took part in every branch of athletics merely to show his approval. He has the courage of his convictions and many are the lessons in morals and manners which he dispenses to some of his less circumspect fellow-students. Truly, "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump."

As a student he is consistent and conscientious. He was never enthusiastic about mathematics, but then Ed seldom becomes enthusiastic, not even sufficiently to come to classes on time. If he is in favor of anything, he simply says so and coldly states his reasons. English is his favorite study, because he says Shakespeare gives him that which he considers essential to his future happiness—a touch of the romantic and the psychology of woman (?) This fact shows another side of his character which one at first glance would not recognize in him.

We bespeak no less for our classmate than a successful realization of his ambitions in a life that will do justice to himself and his Alma Mater.

ARTHUR S. DEIBERT
SCHNECKSVILLE, PA.

"Deibut," "Snexville."

*"I hold the world but as the world Gratiano;
A stage, where every man must play a part,
And mine a sad one."*

Born at Schnecksville, Pa., August 29, 1889. Prepared at Slatington High School and K. S. Normal School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. President Class (1). Assistant Editor of Calendar (2). Associate Editor of the Ciarla. Glee Club (1, 2, 3), Secretary (3). Dramatic Association (2, 3). M. C. A. Keystone Club. Webster Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Classical Club (2). Lutheran. Ministry.

Not so many years ago there was ushered into this busy and brutal universe via Schnecksville, a little baby boy, who, after due and careful consideration, was destined to be known as Arthur S. Deibert. Why he was called Arthur no one can tell, but one fact is certain, however, it could not have been with the hope that he might emulate the famous King Arthur who had some connection or other with a table. Far be it from us to harbor such thoughts, for Arthur has never been known to engage in any rowdiness and fist-fights, or to have demeaned himself by rudely striking a fellow student, although he has been known to strike matches quite frequently.

In truth, striking matches is Arthur's keenest and highest enjoyment. Not, dear reader, to the ordinary sulphurous sticks do we refer, but those matches with more of the human element in them—the eternal feminine. In plain English, Arthur has many affairs of the heart. He is of a decidedly romantic nature which must express itself. In the words of the poet we might say, "In his spare time Arthur's 'fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love'." His whole conduct fits him for this popularity among the ladies; the embodiment of extreme suavity, he is mild, gentle, kind, with always a pleasant word for everyone. His voice has, in fact, such a pleasing quality that he "made" the glee club in his very first year, in which, due to his knowledge of the technique of music, he has become a valuable member.

Genial qualities bespeak for him success in his chosen profession—the ministry—where he will be able to influence by example and not by force.

GEORGE A. EICHLER
LAURY'S, PA.

"Sonny," "Icler," "Rosebud."

"Es gibt ein' Kerl von Laury's"

"I fed mine eye with gazing on his face."

Born at Laury's, Pa., March 6, 1892. Prepared at Allentown Prep School. Entered Muhlenberg in September, 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Secretary A. P. S. Club. Chaplain Euterpea. Woodrow Wilson Club. Classical Club. Webster Club. A. P. S. Club. Lutheran. Democrat. Ministry.

Of all things, here is the little man who especially as a Freshman, was the objective of feminine eyes on pleasant days in town. Why? Let us explain: His socks were green, his cap button was green, and between the two greens were his bonnie red cheeks! Then, again we say, "of all things," for is not this another of the ubiquitous, embryo school masters? Alas, too true!

They say (hist) that if ever one wants to hear a song at the bottom of which there is genuine love, let that one make friends with Sonny and induce him to sing his almost cruelly fierce battle song. "Come to my heart"—Sh! don't mention the name. So far for the lighter side of his character.

George is another coming public speaker whose self-possession and power of expression commend his ambition to become a bishop of souls—not to mention the sterling though unassertive qualities of character which are his. It may be, who can say, that our mate will become one of that necessary and valuable type of men who handle English, German and Pennsylvania German with equal ease. George, by superficial observers, may be adjudged slow, and it may be said with entire truth, that he is somewhat unsophisticated. What of it? Washington, Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and even some of our present Seniors were the same at one time. If there was hope for these characters, how great may George not become?

But we digress; this, our brother, in the growing pains of education, is a good student, steady, strong and capable of filling his place in the world, so we expect worthy and worth while achievements from him in later life.

JOHN L. EISENHARD
CEMENTON, PA.

"Chonnie."

*"Distilled waters run deep."
"He bearded the lion in his den."*

Born at Alburtis, Pa., January 6, 1893. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Classical Club. A. P. S. Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Lutheran. Teaching.

John L. Eisenhard possesses the truly peculiar characteristics of all those that have come to Muhlenberg from the Cementon section, namely, he is small of stature and a good plugger at his books. He patiently endured all the trials and temptations encountered while pursuing the classical course of the Allentown Preparatory School, and was graduated in 1910, the silent member of that famous class.

He entered college with a thirst for knowledge unsurpassed by that of any other classmate. This fact can be substantiated by saying that he uses every moment of his spare time to get out his lessons thoroughly. He chose to travel the well-trodden path through the languages, and is a very reliable authority in the classic languages. If his dictionaries could speak they would certainly cry for mercy and ask to be delivered from such unusual disturbance in their rest.

John is a member of the Classical Club. We do not always know when it meets, but when he comes around at noon smoking a cigar, we know that he attended a meeting of the club the previous evening. Our friend is quiet and peaceful. He never picks a quarrel and there is no record that he ever raised a disturbance since he has been at college. He is not fond of athletics, but he has enough grit to run an automobile at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

In spite of all that by any chance may be said in criticism of our man, John is bound to succeed in his studies by reason of his persistent and faithful application and at length, it follows as a natural thing, that a good position as language instructor awaits him somewhere in the world of education.

MARTIN D. FETHEROLF
JACKSONVILLE, PA.

"Fetter." "Stonewall Jackson."

*"A voice from the farm,
A good man and true."*

Born at Wescoesville, Pa., September 15, 1887. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Vice President (3). Student Council. Assistant Track Manager. Associate Editor of the Ciarla. Class Secretary (2). Press Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Dramatic Association. Football Squad (1, 2). Varsity "M" (3). Class Basketball (1, 2), Manager (2). Class Track (1). Baseball (1). M. C. A. Webster Club. A. P. S. Club. Lutheran. Teaching.

This tall dark-haired youth comes from the upper regions of Lehigh County. He is of a rather quiet but thoughtful disposition, a good student, generally drawing good marks. Ask him a question and watch how thoughtful he becomes and then hear him say, "Well, I can't just exactly say," and then he goes on to answer your question—a logical and sensible reply certainly.

Martin is also one of our athletes, has developed splendidly as centre of the Varsity football team, and we are glad that he can be counted on for another year. At the end of the 1911 football season there was considerable brow wrinkling deliberation and some anxiety as to who should take the place of retiring Captain Savacool at center. This doubt and perplexity were dispelled, and growing satisfaction took their place when last season it was found that Fetherolf could be counted upon to present his stonewall front to the foe in the center's important position. The season's record is evidence enough that he counted for a whole one in the crack 1912 team. His fine trophy "M" sweater bears witness to his football ability. Last year he managed our class basketball team very successfully, too, losing the championship by only one game.

With Allentown ladies, Fetter has had a deal of pleasant experience. We are glad to say, however, that Fetter forgets all about his outside experiences so that they do not interfere with college business, and we predict for him many years of single bliss.

Martin's ambition is to become a teacher, and we are sure that in a few years he will be a member of the faculty in one of the colleges of the country. All success to our gallant student athlete, Stonewall Jackson.

HENRY J. FRY
CATASAUQUA, PA.

"Hen," "Deacon,"

*"Certain," said she, "a wise gentleman."
"Will not the ladies be afraid of the lion?"*

Born at Lancaster, May 2, 1892. Prepared at Friend's S. School (Philadelphia), Catasauqua High School and Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Glee Club (1, 3). Reader, Assistant Business Manager (3). Dramatic Association. M. C. A. Secretary A. P. S. Club. Assistant Cheer Leader. Class President (2). Class Historian. Calendar Staff (2). Associate Editor of Ciarla. $\Lambda\Gamma\Omega$ Fraternity. First Prize College Short Story Contest (1). Class Tennis Team (2). Progressive. Lutheran. Ministry.

Henry Jacob Fry, a resident of that more or less barbaric town of Catasauqua and erstwhile inhabitant of Philadelphia, startled the world from its lethargic state, especially that part of it known as Lancaster, only a few short years ago—but why go on? I say startled, for from the very first day of his appearance, so the incredible tale runs, he evinced a potent mastery of the English language. He loves to bathe himself and his listeners in a bottomless pool of the most exquisite phrases and expressions imaginable. The queer thing of it is, this superfluity of expression finds an outlet in questions of amazing depth. Why, do you know, he even baffles the highly learned by the very persistence of his obtuseness!

To this achievement must be added the fact that because of his close acquaintance with and attendance on the fair and adorable contingency of Allentown's population, he has become a past master in the art of small talk. Surprising that a man of such accomplishments should ever deign to consider girls in conversation, but such is the sad fact. Figuratively speaking, the girls have Henry's goat. Of course, there is nothing heinous in that, but it is deplorable that a man of such mental calibre should (shall I say) waste his time on such a topic as the equal rights sex?

Our friend Fry is an all around man in every department except athletics. Socially, he has no peer, and as a student it can be said, with pride, that even though he's often absent from college, need I say for what, he is always eloquent in his excuses and enthusiastic in his studies.

We believe he knows what he wants, wants what is right and just, and finally, we believe that the ministry will receive in him a faithful, true and worthy man whose work cannot fail to count for good.

CHARLES A. GEBERT
TAMAQUA, PA.

"Geb."

*"And when a lady's in the case,
You know all other things give place."*

Born at Tamaqua, Pa., November 3, 1892. Prepared at the Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College September, 1910. Classical Course. Associate Editor of the Ciarla. A. P. S. Club. Beni Levi Club. Sophronia L.S. Classical Club. ΑΤΩ Fraternity. Class Basketball (1). Class Baseball (2). Lutheran. Teaching.

Charles A. Gebert, our representative from the coal regions, was born, we are told, in Tamaqua, while the moon had an eclipse. Whatever good or bad this omen may mean remains yet to be discovered. After having completed the course of studies in his native town, he learned the local tricks of the miner's trade. His father, who is a scholar and an advocate of all that is good and noble, would not have his son waste his sweetness in the dank air of the mines. As a result Geb came to Allentown Prep and thence to Muhlenberg.

He is a consistent student, but in order to keep up the pace set for him by another of his family, he must keep up a forced draft. Psychology is one of his favorite studies, but he does not always comprehend the questions. To illustrate this peculiarity, one day, while abstractedly discussing the emotion, love, Geb was just on the point of making a confession, but to the dissatisfaction of the class, he was saved by a timely intercession. One may, in a slight degree, estimate the broadness of character and mind of this gentleman when we reflect upon the environment of his youth. His favorite expression is, "Bet you a cow," and he seems to have an innate natural aptitude for absorbing all the Pennsylvania German phrases that come his way.

He is a very profitable boarder at the refectory, because of the fact that he almost invariably denies himself the luxuries of the morning meal. Then somewhat irrelevant to what has just preceded, but important is the fact that Geb is one of the famous tenors of the junior chapel choir and his personality helps to hold its members together.

We do not know definitely what profession he expects to follow, but we think that he inclines to the ministry with a hereditary impulse which is not allowed to manifest itself; whatever it may be, he has the warm wishes of his mates for a pleasant, happy and useful place in the world's work.

ARTHUR P. GRAMMES
FOGELSVILLE, PA.

"Martinet," "Pope."

*"There are more things in heaven and earth,
Than are dreamed of in thy philosophy, O Plato."*

Born at Walbert, Pa, Dec. 29, 1889. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College in September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Vice President (2), Clerk (2). Class Secretary (1), Vice President (2), President (3). Delegate to Intercollegiate Oratorical Union (Vice President.) Assistant Editor-in-Chief Ciarla. Classical Club Vice President (3). A. P. S. Club Vice President (3). Woodrow Wilson Club Vice President (3). Webster Club President (3). Literary Editor of the "Muhlenberg." Student Council. Press Club. Lutheran. Teaching.

Just cast your eye along the list of official positions held and being held by our stern, yet unassuming, erstwhile class president hailing from the unpretentious and sequestered village called Fogelsville. Grammes has the right idea in that whatever he attempts, he goes into it seriously and vigorously. His stern and military methods were probably acquired as a teacher of unsophisticated youths. Arthur soon saw almost infinite possibilities in the school world for a man of energy and determination so that Muhlenberg ultimately was given the task of rounding out the already well supplied talents lent him for good use in this world. Immediately upon his appearance at college he became active in class affairs and very soon in the larger interests of the student body.

There is a rumor, to turn our subject around to view him from a different angle, that this gentleman of outward calm and circumspection has formed a warm Platonic friendship with some one back home who must be reckoned with as a factor in his future.

Having had frequent occasions to test the powers and capabilities of our friend, we predict for him a modest beginning, a steady upward growth and finally we are sure, a place in his chosen vocation commensurate with talents, fidelity to duty however unattractive and sagacity for recognizing it.

"The youngest son of Priam, a true knight,
Not yet mature, yet matchless, firm of word,
Speaking of deeds and deedless in his tongue,
Not soon provoked nor being provoked soon calmed;
His heart and hand both open and both free;
For what he has he gives, what thinks he shows;
Yet gives he not till judgment guide his bounty,
Nor dignifies an unfit thought with breath."

WILLIAM J. HEILMAN
ALLENTOWN, PA.

"Billy," "Amy," "Cute."

*"A toast, men, to a friend in need,
For Billy is that friend indeed."*

Born at Amityville, Pa., January 13, 1891. Prepared at Keystone State Normal School. Entered College in September, 1911. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Classical Club. Keystone Club Secretary (3). Woodrow Wilson Club. Class Secretary (3). Ciarla Staff Artist. Class Basketball (2). Lutheran. Ministry.

William J. Heilman, better known as Amy, is a small man with a mighty mind; no one has been so true and faithful to his class in various unmentionable (for lack of space) ways than Amy. "Cute" has never been known to refuse to do a favor for anyone, and his agreeable disposition accounts for his many and widely distributed friends. Though born in an obscure neighborhood, he has lighted up the obscurity, he has fought his way through a wicked world by destroying its wickedness before him, and with it all, been unscathed by conceit!

This, our man of parts, has developed a taste for literature in its various phases so that ere long he himself may be blossoming out as a youthful literateur—a Fielding or a Shakespeare. He, it appears, seems disposed towards comedy, and this trait may lead him to the comic opera stage there to shine as a small but complete specimen of manhood. (Nay, not so, there is more serious and useful work for him to do). Blue eyes, curly hair and the smile that won't come off are sure to prove valuable assets in battle with the surly elements of opposition whether in business, war, or love. Young in years and experience as he is, he nevertheless has left a brief pedagogical record behind him, and who shall say after that, that he is not open to the wily and subtle attacks of the little imp Cupid? Without insinuating anything, it is safe to say that you never can tell.

Well, Bill, a man with a past is a man who needs watching—some who have a shady past bear watching for prevention's sake, but those who have a transparent past, such as yours, bear expectant watching, forseeing deeds of the right stamp, work worthy of encouragement and well-wishes of all who know you. Again, we say here's to Heilman, the man of parts with an assured bright future, if we know you aright.

FREDERICK A. HEUER
MT. AIRY, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

"Fritz."

*"He is a man, take him for all in all,
I shall not look upon his like again."*

Born at Chicago, Ill., March 21, 1893. Prepared at Central High School, Philadelphia. Entered College, September, 1912. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Football (3). Varsity "M" Man. Class President (3). Quaker City Club. Lutheran. Teaching.

Next in this array of prize exhibits comes a recent discovery—Heuer. There are a few things we want you to notice, gentle reader. First, the dreamy expression around the eyes. No, we know what you are thinking—that isn't a result of his residence in that "City of Sleep" (!) He is thinking, dreaming, pondering you might say, of that dear girl. Did you ever talk to Heuer for any length of time? No? Well, here is about what you would hear if he knew you well enough for confidences. He would give you a little discourse on music. We want to interrupt here, and say that Fritz knows a little about music, at that, and really hasn't a bad voice. Then he'll talk athletics and his football experience warrants that, too.

For a city man, Heuer's physical development is excellent, but then he has just finished the course offered by the Central High School of his home town after a rather creditable athletic career there as a football star. When a man has won a place on the C. H. S. team it generally follows that he can be expected to show the physical, mental, and moral accomplishments of a man. It is rather difficult to talk as it were, concerning first impressions of a subject, but we feel justified in saying that this gentleman will worthily share in the service of the class, of the various organizations connected with college life and of Alma Mater in her larger interests.

As a fitting close we want to say seriously that if you can forgive Heuer's living in Philadelphia you'll like him. He has been a late arrival, but he has the right spirit and the stuff to back up that spirit. Heuer is not only a good athlete, but combines the rare qualities of a good student. If Philadelphia has any more such men for Muhlenberg we say by all means send them. Fritz will, we believe, become a live-wire professor when education and training are completed.

CLARENCE F. HOEHLE
RITTERSVILLE, PA.

"Thy tongue betrayeth thee."

Born October 25, 1894. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College September, 1910. Scientific Course. Sophronia L.S. A. P. S. Club. Reformed. Medicine.

Clarence Hoehle was born at Rittersville, was raised there and has been there ever since. In this twentieth century age of development and local consolidation, we are somewhat surprised that Clarence does not patronize his home institution, we really know no reason save his sanity.

The five foot nine inches of humanity wearing a broad smile, with ruddy cheeks and a teddy hair cut, never fails to attract the attention of the fair sex. Since he spends odd hours at P. & J.'s, his smile is ever broadening, and he is the most optimistic fellow you can strike on a Monday morning. Strange; we wonder why. Evidently his hunger (?) is appeased. The story is completed by a Friday evening smile which spells anticipation to us and our doubt is dissolved.

Hoehle traveled along for the first year in the A.B. automobile, but alas! at the end will be branded B.S. He takes his troubles calmly, is very modest in class and always waits until he is in the basement to give full vent to his thoughts and feelings.

He is a fellow who has overcome many difficulties of mountain-like proportions as a student and these are not generally known to his classmates. His very failures have enabled him finally to select the line of work in which he "has found himself," or will, if perseverance means anything at all.

In spite of all ups and down, Clarence is a loyal member of the class and College and a good Wilsonian Democrat. He has chosen biology as his favorite study. No doubt in due time, after completing a course in medicine, he will hang out his shingle in the home town to the satisfaction of many friends.

CHRISTIAN P. JENSEN
UTICA, N. Y.

"Chris."

*"Patience and shuffle the cards"—Cervantes.
"From woman's eyes a doctrine I divine."*

Born at Whitesboro, N. Y., February 3, 1891.
Prepared at Utica Free Academy. Entered as Freshman in the Fall of 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Empire State Club. Business Manager Ciarla Ministry.

We now take pleasure in presenting to you our only representative of the Empire State of which friend Jensen is justly proud. Chris came to us with the determined and resolute spirit of an earnest student, and for the first two years he carried out his noble resolve. But alas for resolutions, Dan Cupid entered upon the scene of the drama at this time, and, taking deliberate aim, let fly his pointed dart. Strange to say, the historical characters of the Middle Ages faded into a misty haze of unreality; the fascination of his favorite study the Greek language, as used by eminent exponents of neo-platonic philosophy no longer attracted him, and even the psychological chaos of mental functioning resolved itself into a transcendentalistic incoherency; I say this entire formidable array of enticing interests all took second place because he succumbed to the first shot and not even the anti-toxin of examinations could check the range of this most common and most virulent of afflictions. Well, what we wanted to say, Chris fell in love and enjoyed the fall.

Chris is, however, an energetic and affable young fellow whose qualities won for him a place on the CIARLA Board as one of the business managers; in this capacity he has made good.

Although not of athletic build he takes a keen interest in the athletics of the college. He adds his mite to the football spirit by a thorough canvass of the city for the sale of season tickets, and always contributes his share of rooting and general enthusiasm at all athletic contests.

Jensen is studying for the ministry and as determination coupled with studying qualities is an important factor in this profession, we see that results will crown his endeavors.

ELMER S. KIDD

BATH, PA.

"Captain Kiddo."

*"What is there in the vale of life
Half as delightful as a wife?"*

Born at Bath, May 29, 1893. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Treasurer of Class (3). Vice President of Sophronia L.S. (3). A. P. S. Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Class Football (1, 2). Baseball (1). Track (1, 2). Varsity Squad (1). Lutheran. Democrat. Ministry.

Kidd and Bath are inseparably associated. Listen. Kidd was graduated from Bath High with distinction, that is, he was the only male member of a class of two. An account of frequent class meetings would indeed be very interesting, but space does not permit mention. Not content with his foundation Elmer came to Allentown Prep, and his wants were satisfied, as he says, due to the fact that it was not a co-ed institution.

During his preparatory school course he took a fancy to languages, and since he is at college he has distinguished himself as a Greek student. He was always ready with an answer when questions were asked about more vivid and less vivid future conditional sentences. He could not account for his grammar question answers, but we have since discovered that he frequently visited Sell and Phillips.

Elmer holds some athletic records made in his high school days; for example, running a hundred yards in a hundred seconds. Now he seems to use his powerful body to a better purpose, for The Wear Ever Aluminum Company has claimed him as a star salesman during the summer vacation. With a great deal of "stick-to-it-iveness" and by means of his wonderful persuasive powers he has become a howling success in salesmanship. He says it's dead easy with a good stock of stories and poems to move the women to tears. This being once accomplished the sale is sure.

But say what we may, Elmer is going to be a great open-hearted minister with a happy family about him. Here he is coming now a big stout fellow, with a corn cob pipe in his mouth,—he asks for tobacco, but we have none. He expresses his opinion by his favorite, "Oh Yea!" The door is slammed and Kidd is gone.

ELMER L. LEISEY

DENVER, PA.

*"Enjoy the present smiling hour
And put it out of fortune's power."*

"Leesy," "Leizer," "Jack Leisey."

Born June 19, 1892. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Press Club (3). Athletic Editor Muhlenberg. Secretary Euterpea L.S. (2), President (3). Student Council (3). President of Class (2). A. P. S. Club. Lancaster County Club. ΔΘ Fraternity. Class Football (1, 2). Class Basketball (1, 2). Class Baseball (1, 2). Class Baseball Manager. Varsity Football (1, 2). Varsity Basketball (3). Student Director Athletic Association. Lutheran. Washington Party. Ministry.

Elmer Leisey, premier athlete of the class, has been an active participant in football, basketball and baseball. But Leisey had a good training and valuable experience and that accounts for his talent. At Denver High School Lebbo was coach and star player of the most brilliant team that institution ever sent upon the gridiron, and at Prep he was the star first baseman. Needless to say the spirit of sacrifice and fight for his Alma Mater is still a part of him and we can only regret that Leisey so severely hurt his knee as to be unable to continue his athletic career with the success which he deserves.

Fond recollections of brilliant recitations in mathematics and psychology are enjoyed by all. His eyesight is keen and sharp, so that turning the pages of a reference book in order to find its contents is folly to him. A look at the cover, a wrinkling of the forehead, an expression of delight in his countenance, and all is his. It would not be doing justice to the subject of this biography if we failed to mention his poetic ability. You wouldn't suspect that it was in him to look at him, would you? It is true and the reader is referred to several private manuscripts whose pages fairly glow with an epic spirit. That spirit is but a faint counterpart of the real and vital spirit of the writer himself.

Leisey came to college with the idea of becoming a minister. When he makes good in that profession, there will be abundant evidence in his methods of doing things to prove that his college course was of great value to him. Recently we heard that he is going to be a journalist.

Elmer insists that his great ambition is to be a jolly good fellow. Mere mention of his host of friends, particularly of the fair sex, and the fact that his favorite study is psychology are undeniable signs of the attainment of his ambition.

WALTER W. MOCK
ALLENTOWN, PA.

"Mark Twain."

"Latin and Greek are naught to me Mathematics suits me to a T."

"I had all this before."

Born in Allentown, Pa., March 19, 1892. Prepared at Allentown High School. Entered College September, 1910. Scientific Course. Sophronia L.S. Photographer on Ciarla Staff. Dr. H. A. Jelly Scientific German Prize (2). Class Baseball (1). A. H. S. Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Lutheran. Chemist.

Behold the scientist of the class! He may be called the known quantity in science and the unknown quantity in the classics. With this brief introduction we present to you Walter Mock a coming prominent professional man. He was graduated from Allentown High School in 1910, with honors in one of the best classes ever turned out by that institution. In the fall of the same year he entered Muhlenberg with determination to equal or surpass all his previous records in scholastic achievement. We believe he has succeeded. How well may be judged from the fact that he is considered the scientific information bureau for that select aggregation of students who daily gather to re-discuss many topics in the lower halls of the main building.

Walter is not only a scientist but a photographer of no mean ability as his work in this book attests. Night or day, rain or shine, he is sure to be seen with the camera when anything of interest is about to happen. Without question or doubt, he is an ardent student, possesses much latent oratorical ability and has the distinction of being the only Junior to elect the rather difficult mathematics course. Mark Twain's humor has set his strings vibrating to such an extent that he may often be heard trying to mock some of that celebrity's humor. Ask him to repeat for you portions of his sophomore banquet speech and be convinced of the existence of a sparkling, inexhaustible though quiet supply of humor.

Not much is known of his social achievements except that he once brought a maid to a college function, and the best we can do is put a question mark after the report of his visits to — on business.

Walter is earnest and sincere in all his undertakings and succeeds remarkably well in being optimistic. We, therefore, predict for him success as a chemist—his chosen life-work, not because of his outlook merely, but because of thoroughness in study and practice.

HARRY W. NENOW
PHILLIPSBURG, N. J.

"Hap," "Nemo."

*"A man's a man for a' that and a' that."
"Fortune and I are friends."*

Born at Phillipsburg, N. J., November 16, 1889. Prepared at Phillipsburg High School. Scientific Course. Entered College, September, 1910. Class Football Captain (1, 2). Baseball (1, 2). College Football (1, 2). Bowlman (1, 2). Woodrow Wilson Club. John Lear Biological Club (1). Lutheran. Medicine.

Just take a second look at his face, and keep in mind his nickname, Hap. It is certainly no discredit to have a "handle" which denotes that rare quality of continual and unquenchable good nature, and all who know our Phillipsburg friend are well satisfied that he is not a chronic sufferer from attacks of melancholy.

Each man has certain marks of individuality and one of Hap's is flannel shirts. Adorned in their soft gray folds, he looks vigorous and equal to any task, physical or mental, and we must admit that in the physical world Nenow can boast of considerable brawn.

In the days when 1914 wore the infant's garb, and we were mercilessly put through the various troublesome times incident to the teething period of college babes—more than once we relied on Nenow's strength and pluck to help us to victory. Our showing in the bowl fight and on the class gridiron would have suffered had Hap been absent. In college football he has stayed through thick and thin, and this Fall sport claims him as a strong supporter. His nerve along these lines has left him heir to the blame for most of the practical jokes played about the dormitories. Of course, there is some fairness in this—but remember that we can always take a joke from a man who will take the return with interest, and this he can do. If you received a ducking last night, don't say a word about it, but in two or three weeks go to Hap's room for a friendly chat and just incidentally mention the fact and then listen to, "There you go again, blaming me." We might add that the world looks with more favor on the man who is always "in" something than the one who continually holds aloof.

Hap says he is going to be a doctor. Now, which kind of a doc do you like the better, the one who is serious and solemn or the cheery jolly man? Believe us, Hap is going to be the latter kind, and we heartily wish him success.

GOBIN H. NORGANG
ALLENTOWN, PA.

*"My mind is such as may not move
For beauty bright or force of love! ! !"
"Let us bury the cares of tomorrow in the joys of today."*

"Gob."

Born at Catasauqua, Pa., April 10, 1890. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Vice President Webster Club. Progressive Club. Sophomore Classical German Prize. Lutheran. Teaching.

Gobin H. Norgang—a name to conjure with—to illustrate, we are told that his politics in few words are, "Neither boss Nor-gang." By the side of the country church and school, whose wholesome influence he imbibed, Gob grew up, to make the story short, and became one of those whose business is "to teach the young idea how to shoot." Ah, but here is a fly in the ointment! Gobin seems to have a mortal dread of being considered rustic. In order to offset that natural and likely tendency, he induced his father as a first step to move to Allentown while he prepared for college. Gobin even now, a Junior at college, dreams dreams and thinks that Horace Greeley's spirit speaks to him and says in the watches of the night, "Go west young man, go west," there to be untrammelled by the shackles of early environment—and Pennsylvania German. That's all right, old chap.

What adds zest and piquancy to the life of this honorable man, is his serious, strenuous and albeit, unprejudiced defence of progressive principles. If you would find him at his best, visit the basketball cage during the noon hour and induce him to fire up the old corn cob pipe. What a world of doing is this, and Gob knows of its doings, from experience and "studying nature, not books." His travels have been more or less extensive. Williamsport on the one hand has offered uplifting impressions, and on the other Atlantic City has, we fear, made a cynic of our friend.

Be these things true or false, argumentative Norgang hath "power to charm the savage beast"—with his artistic command of the pianoforte. Is he not a virtuoso, known and recognized about town as having a fund of college, popular and difficult classic music in his soul, to be called forth on occasion? Yea, verily, 'tis true, who shall gainsay it?

Our subject matter is far from being exhausted and, alas, we must stop—above all things do meet and draw out Gobin Norgang.

THEODORE ERNEST ORR

"Doc."

"Ah! behold ye what knowledge Lurks beneath those shining locks."

Born October 11, 1888, at Meadville, Pa. Prepared at Lerch Preparatory School. Entered College as Special October, 1910. Scientific Course. A TΩ Fraternity. John Lear Biological Society. Basketball (1, 2). Lutheran. Republican. Medicine.

A physician to be—Doc—as he is known to us, hails originally from Meadville, Pa., but since he is of a nomadic disposition he claims Ridgway, Pa., Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, and far famed Phillipsburg, N. J., as former places of residence. The fact that Doc has made this New Jersey town his home for a considerable length of time proves that it is a good antidote for the wanderlust disease. While living there he prepared for college at Lerch Preparatory School.

Entering College in 1910 as a special, Muhlenberg developed such a charm for him that he decided to stay four years. The class received him as a member in 1912 although in spirit he has been with us ever since he entered. Doc has risen to the position of co-proprietor of the college store, assistant registrar and treasurer of the college. He really should be called Bernie's devil for two specific reasons. First, he takes all the blame for the things that go wrong and handles all the minor difficulties. Secondly, he is the cause of all the troubles and makes all the mistakes that are made.

We find in him a realist, so much so that he specialized in biology, bacteriology and a few other "ologies." In fact, he is so much in love with this work that he made it his hobby. Some of his classmates mathematically inclined have calculated that if Doc would continue to hold that science as his hobby, in four years and two months everything that he eats must be examined for microbes and be stamped O. K. Then again Doc is such an ardent student of mathematics that he refused a dinner and dance invitation to prepare a lesson in that subject! May sure success in life, Doc, reward your devotion to college work.

WARREN C. PHILLIPS
SHOEMAKERSVILLE, PA.

*"His wavy locks of chestnut brown
Were the talk of Shoemaker town."*

"Vociferous," "Phips."

Born in Shoemakersville, October 2, 1892. Prepared at K. S. N. S. and Perkiomen Seminary. Entered College in September, 1911. Classical Course. Euterpea Literary Society. Captain Class Basketball (2). Perkiomen Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. ΔΘ Fraternity. Class Football (2). Class Baseball (2). Lutheran. Democrat. Ministry or Law.

The question that now confronts us is whether a man who is blessed with a name such as Warren Columbus Phillips comprising the names of a trio of renowned men—(a brave general, a noted discoverer, and an eminent lecturer), can be inspired to strive for noble things and attain to fame. We have at least one reason for hoping so for he says he never had any other occupation than that of a student, but perhaps he should say he has always been attending educational institutions.

Warren believes that a reasonable amount of time should be spent in studying, but he thinks there are far more important things in life than are in a college curriculum. No doubt he is living up to his convictions for it is on record that he was the first of the members of his class to affiliate himself with the "Ancient Order of Benedicts." Economics, he tells us, in theory is not as important as economics in practice, and religion in the lecture room is by no means as serious as religion in the church where men are made to realize that they are the worse half of a life partnership.

Phips is a believer in the athletic course and in pursuance of this belief he is a tennis player of no mean ability, can twirl the sphere in the pitcher's box and plays a good game of basketball.

Since our classmate may enter the legal profession he may have taken the distinguished senator from Wisconsin with the pompadour cut and verbosity as his ideal, for when it comes to talking, Phips can do his share—not implying that anything is said. Warren is well liked by the fellows and will no doubt bring credit to that wonderful collection of names that he calls his own.

CHARLES F. SEIDEL

CALCIUM, PA.

*"The world's opinion will not falter
Nor can it yet my purpose alter."*

"Charlie."

Born in Klinesville, Pa., December 21, 1885. Graduated from K. S. N. S., 1908. Entered Muhlenberg in September, 1910. Classical Course. Enterpea L.S. M. C. A. Keystone Club. Classical Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Class Vice President (2). Assistant Basketball Manager (3). Librarian, Enterpea L.S. Treasurer of Classical Club. Business Manager Ciarla. Class Football (1, 2). Class Basketball (1, 2). Class Baseball (1). Class Track (1). Class Vice President (3). Lutheran. Democrat (Progressive). Teaching.

Charlie is a true representative of Berks County. If you desire proof, start to denounce it and you will surely have your fill. In listening to his talk one might think that all the freaks and wonders of the world were gathered there. It is hard to mention anything without getting the assurance that something like it or even better is found "over where I live." Too bad Berks County has all the fine things.

With a sturdy body and a determined mind hardened by knocks and bumps in life's experience Charlie has not failed to show an interest in athletics. Although not very successful in football he helped to defend the honor of 1914 by good work as a guard on our basketball team.

Our friend is a hard, consistent student—whenever his business allows it. He believes firmly in the aristocracy of the soil and the tillers of it; for that reason he intends to make agricultural chemistry and rural economics two of the strong lines of his vocational study. He believes in the poetry of the land and will try to uplift and ennoble the lives of the sons of horny handed toil. With all of this wide range of ability he takes a very keen interest in his work and will eventually be ready to talk and boost Muhlenberg any time and all the time.

You know, or at least you ought to, that Seidel is in the "Educational Paper" business. Considering the number of telephone calls and letters he is receiving we are sure he is taking a deep personal interest in a goodly number of his subscribers. Talk teachers and institute and Seidel is as happy as a lark. Be that as it may we considered his experience sufficient to help handle the business end of this Ciarla.

Seidel desires to make teaching his life work and we may well wish him success in training others as he has been trained.

HARVEY T. SELL
SCHNECKSVILLE, PA.

"Selly," "Hercules."

"Who saw life steadily and saw it whole."

Born at Newside, Pa., December 21, 1889. Prepared at North Whitehall High School and A. P. S. Entered College in September, 1910. Classical Course. Euterpea L.S. Class Secretary (2). Classical Club. M. C. A. A. P. S. Club. Webster Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. Class Track. Track Varsity (1). Lutheran. Democrat. Ministry.

This young giant insists that he was born at Deibertsville, but unfortunately Uncle Sam has blotted it from the map. Harvey, above all things, is frank in his speech about himself and others, so his statement that he comes from the "land" and is proud of it need not surprise you.

Through the downright persistence of rustic youth, Harvey succeeded in preparing himself for teaching. As a pedagogue he introduced (mark ye), the English language into the schools of Heidelberg, and was particularly successful in educating the mountaineers in the intricacies of the shoemaker dance. Many are the men whose dauntless purpose has carried them away from their native haunts and through the bleak halls of Allentown Prep School. Our Harvey was one who briefly passed through and early disclosed to his mates an astonishing power of oratory of a kind possessed by few.

Hercules has shown marked athletic possibilities, and his highly individualistic style of running on the track was the terror of the men behind him.

It has been said, and we believe with entire justice, that among the great and awful labors of this translated prehistoric hero, is the study of the rural problem about Lynnport. All students of country social problems agree that woman is the center about which they revolve. Now, Sell is not a man of one idea, so we look for a satisfactory solution of the difficulty in his case at least.

They say that Harvey wishes to become a minister. With his growing vision, tolerance, energy and purpose we believe he is marked for a successful career.

ALBERT H. SKEAN

POTTSTOWN, PA.

"Al," "Skan," "Buck."

*"I will run past all
With Muhlenberg's ball."*

"Comfort me boy, what great men have been in love?"

Born at Pottstown, Pa., June 5, 1890. Prepared at Pottstown High School. Entered in the Fall of 1909. Scientific Course. Sophronia L.S. Captain Track (3). Captain Football (4). Track (1, 2, 3). Varsity Football (1, 2, 3). Third Place P. I. A. A. Discus Throw. $\Delta T \Omega$ Fraternity. Reformed. Democrat. Teaching.

In the bosom of one of those spacious coves which indent the eastern shore of the Schuylkill, at that broad expanse of the river denominated by a few well meaning souls as Crystal Cove, but where they prudently never bathed without imploring the protection of all deities hostile to microbes—there lies a small market town or rural port, which is generally and properly known as Pottstown.

Buck comes from Pottstown, was born, bred and still lives there. Pottstown has read with pride of her son's athletic achievements during his stay at Muhlenberg, of his election to the football captaincy this year (1913).

Even when not in training for football or track while at college, Skean is not out very much and can generally be found spending his evenings in helping to hold Rhoades Hall in place. Be not deceived, however, the scene changes. It is a sunny afternoon on Brighton Beach. The crowd is brightly attractive and happy, resting and disporting along the strand. The bathers are numerous—all is life and gaiety. But hark! A cry! A girl in distress far out beyond her depth. Our man is awake to a call like that. He is, certainly he is, Buck always is, and our football star gallantly rescued a young, fair, distressed damsel. What maiden does not admire courage?

Figures and forms seem to have a powerful attraction for Al, in fact, so powerful that he regards mathematics as his favorite study—and in this has he not found pleasure and joy in the thing rejected by many of us? So it seemeth.

We would suggest that he would during his next vacation calculate the weight of salt held in solution by the waters of the mighty deep!

Our friend Skean is quiet, has little to say and he is white! Can be depended upon. He must be known to be appreciated, and to know him is to want him for a friend.

PAUL V. TAYLOR
ALLENTOWN, PA.

"Reds," "Reddy."

"It is a good divine that follows his own teachings."

Born at Reamstown, Pa., September 30, 1892. Prepared at Tamaqua High School. Entered College, September, 1910. Classical Course. Sophronia L.S. Chaplain Sophronia L.S. (1, 2, 3). Beni Levi Club. Class Baseball (1, 2). Class Track (1, 2). Class Football (1, 2). Football (1, 2). Evangelical Association. Independent. Medical Missions.

Paul V. Taylor was born in Reamstown, Lancaster County, Pa. He is a very unsettled fellow, having lived in no less than a dozen towns throughout Pennsylvania, Allentown being the last among them. We hope that he has at last found a place that suits his migratory nature. Reddy holds the undisputed honor of being the most radical man in the class. He can get up in any meeting or class and calmly propound his almost heretical doctrines, which at times bring forth bursts of laughter from the audience, at times cries and groans, and occasionally a volley of books. The basement of the administration building has many a time been subject to his oratorical spurts. Here, among the day students he helps to discuss the questions of the day, especially in religion and politics. In the former he is quite well versed, having preached regularly ever since he came to college. He has given the day students many a learned discourse on theological topics, but somehow or other their minds do not seem to be able fully to comprehend or appreciate his view point.

Aside from these minor shortcomings Reddy shows promise of becoming a great man. He is not afraid to stand up for his conviction even though he knows that everybody is against him. He will fight for what he thinks is right to the bitter end. He is original, and has during his stay at college propounded many obtruse theories, but also some good ones.

Taylor is that kind of a fellow who is not afraid to attack a hard proposition and keep on working until the goal is reached. He expects at some time or other to become a medical missionary. We think he has chosen wisely for that profession calls for such traits of character and such talents as are his. We, therefore, hope that he will succeed in that noble ambition and bring glory upon himself and his Alma Mater.

ELWOOD J. UNANGST
NAZARETH, PA.

*"Marked with a good stamp,
 A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays
 And confident tommorows."*

"Cohen," "Ungie."

Born February 9, 1887, at Nazareth, Pa. Prepared at Allentown Preparatory school. Entered College, September, 1910. A.B. Course. Euterpea L.S. Class Vice President (1). Secretary Euterpea L.S. (2). Class Treasurer (2). Editor Calendar (2). Treasurer Euterpea L.S. (3). Student Council (3). Associate Editor Ciarla. Business Manager Dramatic Association. Assistant Editor Muhlenberg. Secretary Woodrow Wilson Club. Dramatic Association. Press Club. Classical Club. A. P. S. Club. Woodrow Wilson Club. $\Lambda\tau\Omega$ Fraternity. Class Track (1). Freshman English Prize. Sophomore General Average Prize. Lutheran. Democrat. Ministry.

Enter with much commotion and a great bustle, arms laden with books and a questioning look in his eye, Elwood J. Unangst, best student in the class, though this has been disputed. But we ask, "What good can come out of Nazareth?" Fry answers by saying, "In him I find a walking dictionary, the sum and substance of reference books necessary for educational salvation, the latest dope in dancing and the first aid in all things temporal."

He has the reputation of boning assiduously and conscientiously; there may be some truth in this awful accusation for he is guilty of having the highest average in the class during our sophomore year. Yes, Ungie works so hard during the week that he must go home each Saturday in order to rest up (?). Rumor has it that he is floor manager of Nazareth's lone department store. We sympathize with him in his arduous duties, which, of course, must deprive him of a quiet evening at home. His early business training should aid him greatly in his future life-work as a sky pilot.

Study, however, is not his greatest fault. Interest in the feminine is mixed up in his faults, not any person in particular, but the gender taken as a whole. For that reason he has been elected to the "Fussers Trio," the most exclusive bunch in college.

Finally, let us not forget Ungie in his political discussions. We can all remember him sitting up into the wee hours of the morning defending his favorite candidate until the other side got the better of the argument. Then Ungie closed by saying, "Oh—you never can show some fellows anything."

But all in all we predict that Nazareth will be proud to claim him as a son. He will make good.

HARRY S. ZIEMER

ADAMSTOWN, PA.

"Horry," "Tseemer."

*"Alas he is too young, yet he looks successfully.
Young gentleman your spirits are too bold for your years."*

Born in Adamstown, Pa., June 25, 1893. Prepared at F. & M. Academy and Dr. George's School. Entered College as a Freshman, September, 1910. Scientific Course. Euterpea L.S. Lancaster County Club. John Lear Biological Society. Class Football (1, 2). Class Baseball (1, 2). Class Basketball (1). College Football Squad (1, 2, 3). Lutheran. Medicine.

This fair complexioned youth, the pride of his native district, is Harry Ziemer, of Adamstown, Pa. He entered college with an impetuous spirit ready to do his worst if necessary. Hap Nenow has been a close companion to him during his college days and his advice seems to have been helpful.

Harry has not failed to be deeply interested in college and class athletics. His scientific knowledge of football is the source of much enjoyment to him, especially so when he is planning visionary schemes to defeat a rival team. Well, to say the least, if the scrubs make the team, Ziemer certainly did help to perfect our wonderful varsity squad. He, though only a feather weight must be commended for his plucky showing on the field through sheer grit.

Ziemer is a faithful adherent of the scientific class with chemistry as his avowed favorite study. We might add that he delights in making experiments in the laboratory and out. To be sure the only way to get at the truth is by experimentation—the correct method of studying psychology with a good conscience. He is a consistent worker and often cuts short the night's rest in order to be fully prepared for his recitations.

We might elaborate on this character and his qualities good and bad, but suffice it to say that Harry plays the piano well, possesses a rare accent in his speech and smokes cigars of his father's own make. With characteristic grit enough to overcome his tendency to seek repose, Harry is bound to make his mark in the world.

The medical profession possesses a charm for him, and if we may predict, having made observations of his patience, thoroughness and earnestness in his biological work, we would say that he will have a large practice with a host of well satisfied patients.

SOPHOMORE HISTORY

WITH modesty we pass over our achievements as Freshmen. Two football and two track "M" men, six men on the Glee Club, and three in the college play; these were mere beginnings of the work which we are continuing even more successfully this year.

Naturally our first duty as Sophomores was to care for the forlorn flock of Freshmen which we found wandering aimlessly within our halls. With unsparing efforts we attempted to convince them that the reception room in the dormitories was not for receptions and that the ferocious (late lamented) "Dutch" never bit children.

"Inasmuch as they had abandoned maternal solicitations for the tumultuous experiences concurrent with the attainment of a higher education," (so said our posters), posters were put up for their guidance. Although heretofore it has always been the custom for Freshmen to tear down Sophomore posters, only a few innocents timidly ventured forth this year. The Freshmen, it is reported, also put up posters, but struck with remorse, meekly took them down, some climbing poles with a great deal of gracefulness to accomplish it.

For a few days afterward we noticed Fresh skulking silently westward toward Cetronia. They fondly imagined that they had a football team whose ability could be improved by secret practice, an illusion later rudely dispelled by a 19-0 defeat at the hands of the Sophomore team.

Was "Freshman Day" a success? Why not? The Faculty fixed the date, the Student Council censored the plans, some Freshmen were fearful of sickness, and the rain reigned over all. "Incidentally," to quote an official report, "the Sophomore Class took care of the event in a very creditable manner."

But more important than our care of the Freshmen, important though that was, have been and are our efforts to advance the interests of our Alma Mater. Not only have some of our men earned their letters in football and track, but the musical ability of 1914 has been so noteworthy that seven Sophs are now on the Glee Club. The strain of the outside work, however, has not prevented us from contributing six of the nine short stories and essays printed in "The Muhlenberg" this year.

Our calendars have been admittedly more attractive and in greater demand than those of any previous class. This year for the first time the class issued separate programs for the big home football games. Then, too, realizing that traditions help foster college spirit, we established the new custom of wearing class hats, and we hope that in spite of uncomplimentary remarks of other classmen, the future Sophomores will continue the custom.

In conclusion, since we have tried to do our full duty in every line of work requiring attention, we look to the Junior and Senior years in which further to honor Old Muhlenberg and distinguish ourselves.

THE BOWL FIGHT 1915-1916

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1916

Chapter 1.

ON September 12, 1912, forty-two energetic and knowledge-hungry young men, the class of 1916, awoke to find that they at last had reached the long hoped-for day when they could begin their journey upon the trodden path of knowledge—the path toward the City of Trained Intellectuals with Muhlenberg as their guide.

They at once organized and were sufficiently coached in college traditions, conditions and customs to be on the alert the following night when the Sophs put up their sickly posters. Unfortunately for them, the posters were not yet dry when they were torn down by the live-wire freshmen. The Sophs however, were still more disgruntled when some time afterward, despite the fact that they had sentinels on duty in different parts of the city until the wee small hours of the night, our posters stared them in the face—after thousands of people had read that public notice of the Soph's character.

What happened in the annual football game between the newcomers and the second year men (see associated press reports)? Did the Freshmen at once plainly convince everyone of their ability to hold up their end and do things for Muhlenberg? As a matter of fact they demonstrated it so conclusively that when the 18th of September approached, the day on which the annual bowl fight was to take place, the Sophomores could be seen moving about with hanging heads and languid steps, fearfully consulting each other. Why? They feared the outcome next day.

The important day came, awaited by one class with fierce joy and by the other with quaking and shaking. In the midst of a driving rain and in a sea of mud the first year men lined up with greased bodies, nerves alert, eager and hungry, yes thirsting for the fray. During the first half the score was easily held at 0-0, but in the second half telling work was done. The whistle blew for the finish with the ne'er-to-be-forgotten score of 45-20 in favor of the Freshmen.

The second victory of the new men over the Sophs was in the presentation of the thirty-six pound Thanksgiving turkey to Dr. Wackernagel.

The class of '16 has not been lagging in college spirit evidenced by her substantial material contributed to the varsity eleven. She is well represented in the glee club and will have a sturdy basketball team. In literary work the freshmen have been and are ready to acquit themselves creditably.

The class is here to stay and is determined to remain until she has shown herself worthy of the position which she holds in college life; every member will use his best endeavors to further the future activities of Alma Mater. Venerunt, viderunt, vincent—they came, they saw, they will conquer—for the greater glory and honor of MUHLENBERG.

REV. REVERE F. WEIDNER, D.D., LL.D., S.T.D.,
President of the Lutheran Theological Seminary of Chicago.

Revere Franklin Weidner, was born November 22, 1851, at Centre Valley, Lehigh County, Pa. He studied in private schools, entered the Junior Class of Muhlenberg College in 1867 and received his A.B. degree in 1869.

Following his graduation he tutored a year at his Alma Mater. Three years later he graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy and was ordained. In 1888 Carthage College, Illinois, conferred the degree S.T.D. upon him. In 1894 he received his LL.D. from Augustana College and Theological Seminary and the same year his Alma Mater bestowed the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Dr. Weidner served as pastor at Phillipsburg, N. J., from 1873 to 1878, and as pastor at Philadelphia from 1875 to 1877. As a teacher he served as Professor of History and Logic at Muhlenberg College from 1875 to 1877, and as Professor of Dogmatics and Exegesis at the Augustana Theological Seminary from 1882 to 1891. In 1891 he was elected president and professor of dogmatic theology at the Chicago Theological Seminary and has served in that capacity ever since. He is a member of the American Philological Society, The American Oriental Society, The Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis and other noted bodies.

Although at all times toiling hard he has devoted much attention to the study of Greek and Hebrew texts of the Bible and has contributed frequently to theological and philological periodicals. His publications are as follows: "Theological Encyclopedia," Volume I; "Exegetical Theology," Volume II; "Historical and Systematic Theology," Volume III; "Practical Theology;" "Biblical Theology of the Old Testament;" "Biblical Theology of the New Testament," Volumes I, II; "Studies in the Book, New Testament," Volumes I, II, III; "Old Testament," Volumes I, II, III, IV; "System of Dogmatic Theology," Volumes I, II; "Introductory New Testament Greek Method;" "Commentary on Mark;" "Commentary on the Four Gospels;" "Christian Ethics;" "Bengel's Gnomon," Volumes I, II, III; "Ball's Hebrew Grammar;" "Theologia: or the Doctrine of God" 1902; "Ecclesiologia; or the Doctrine of the Church" 1913; "The Doctrine of the Ministry" 1907.

SONNET TO SHELLEY

By Rev. J. D. M. BROWN, A.M., Muhlenberg College
Class of 1906

O dreamer-poet who couldst fare so well
Into those dim-lit reaches of the sky
Where unknown realms and worlds uncharted lie,
Far, far beyond the silver star that fell
Flaming into the dark last night, canst tell
How high the spirit on its wings must fly
To see the forms of dreams like thine flit by?
Pray, whither leads the road to where they dwell?

But thou art gone, O Shelly, and thy tongue
That erstwhile sang such liquid notes is stilled.
To be the merest thread of distance flung
Across the gulf 'twixt me and thee, and, thrilled,
I call: "O dreamer dead, send me thy dreams!"

"WHO'S WHO" AMONG THE ALUMNI

1874

EDGAR DUBS SHIMER, A.M., PH.D., LL.D., Associate Superintendent of Public Schools in New York City.

Edgar Dubs Shimer, A.M., Ph.D., LL.D., was born February 23, 1853, at Shimersville, Northampton County, Pa. In 1867 he received his first license to teach. In 1874 he was graduated from Muhlenberg College as valedictorian. He then went to New York City, where for two years he remained with the Rev. Edward F. Moldchuke, D.D., pastor of St. Peter's German Lutheran Church, studying languages and theology.

With the full approval of his grandfather, the Rev. Joseph D. Dubs, D.D., and of the Rev. William A. Schaeffer, D.D., President of the Mount Airy Seminary he abandoned the idea of entering the ministry, and began to teach in the elementary schools of New York City, having refused an instructorship in Latin and German in the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. His success was immediate and pronounced. Careful analysis of his experience soon established for him a wide reputation for wise practice and true theory in education. He was fully prepared for the notable educational reform that swept this country early in his career, so that he became one of the founders of "Emile," a pedagogical society of young men teachers eager for professional improvement. He was one of the founders of the School of Pedagogy, New York City University, in which he served as Professor of Psychology and secretary of the faculty. In 1889 he was elected by University Council to the Professorship of Psychology in the Graduate Seminary. Many of his students in this inner circle have become prominent in professional life. Two of our own alumni, Dr. George Taylor Ettinger and Dr. W. A. Sadtler, completed this post-graduate course. In 1896 he became Associate Superintendent of Public Schools in New York City, and in this field he has been successfully concreting his philosophy of education.

He has lectured widely and freely. Among his published writings are, "The Profession of Teaching," "The Training of Teachers," "Manual Training," "Let Ichabod Study Psychology," "Philosophy of Education," "Graded Schools," "Metaphysical Assumptions," "The Doctor of Pedagogy," "Review of the Secret of Character Building," "Apperception," "The Relation of Language to Thought," "Training of Reason," "Training of Emotion," "Mental Reinforcement," "Fingers and Thumbs," "The College and the Professional Teacher," "Atypical Children." As joint author he is now completing a notably successful series of text books known as "The Progressive Road to Reading."

His life work has been a constant endeavor to lift public school teaching to higher levels. He has steadily made prominent the thought that all good teaching, whether in the public schools or in the university, is fundamentally alike; that good teachers have been pre-eminently the light of the world; and that teaching is and of right ought to be a learned profession. He began this propaganda, in 1896, in his English thesis for doctorate in philosophy claiming that in every college there should be a chair of pedagogy.

He glories in the fact that Muhlenberg College has been a leader in this upward movement, and that his Alma Mater has been officially accredited by the regents of New York State University for satisfactory work in pedagogy.

HON. FRANK M. TREXLER Judge of the Court of Lehigh County since 1902.

Frank Mattern Trexler, son of Edwin W. Trexler and Matilda Trexler, was born in Allentown, January 9th, 1861. Attended the public schools of his native city, and graduated from the City High School at the age of fifteen. Entered Muhlenberg College and graduated in June, 1879, dividing second honor with George S. Seaman. While at College he was a member of the Sophronia Literary Society. Studied law and was admitted to the bar, April 10, 1882. He served as City Solicitor of Allentown from 1885 to 1891 and from 1893 to 1898, a total of eleven years. In December, 1902, upon the death of Hon. Edwin Albright, Judge of the Courts of Lehigh County, Mr. Trexler was appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to fill the vacancy thus created, and in November following was elected for the full term of ten years. He was one of the organizers of the Merchants' National Bank of Allentown, Pa., was elected the first president, but declined owing to his appointment as Judge. He was elected President of the Allentown Y. M. C. A. on July 13, 1890, and has continued in that office ever since. He has taken an active interest in child welfare work, has been President of the Pennsylvania Juvenile Court and Probation Association, Vice President of the Lehigh Valley Child Welfare Conference, and has delivered a number of addresses on different phases of this work. He received from Muhlenberg College the degree of Master of Arts in 1882, and of Doctor of Laws in 1910.

SONNET TO KEATS

By Rev. J. D. M. BROWN, A.M., Muhlenberg College

Class of 1906

This slender volume of thy verse, John Keats,
Is like a statue of the Greeks most rare
And wonderful and exquisitely fair,
In which the craftsmanship of Phidias meets
England's unpolished marble and completes
It into sculptured form, quite unaware
Of Athens and with but this single care:
To banish all that Beauty's charm defeats.

But few were they in thy brief life who thought
That in thy lines so much of loveliness
Was treasured up; but who e'er divined
How well that artist hand of thine had wrought.
And yet—didst thou not best of all express
The Beauty in the heart of Hellas shrined?

SAMUEL C. SCHMUCKER, Professor of Biological Science in the State Normal School at West Chester, Pa., and Distinguished Popular Lecturer.

Samuel Christian Schmucker of the class of '82 is one of Muhlenberg's sons whose life has been devoted to science, and especially to the interpretation of science to the people.

Dr. Schmucker comes from an old Lutheran family. His grandfather was the President of Gettysburg Theological Seminary, while his father, Dr. B. N. Schmucker, was a Lutheran clergyman of considerable importance and activity. His mother was a daughter of Christian Pretz, a citizen of Allentown well known by the people of his generation.

After preparing in the Reading High School, Mr. Schmucker took an undergraduate course at Muhlenberg, graduating '82. He returned at once and took two years of graduate work in Chemistry and Mineralogy under the direction of Dr. Edgar F. Smith, then our Professor of Chemistry, now Provost of the University of Pennsylvania.

After graduation Dr. Schmucker taught science for four years in the Reading Boys' High School. Later he taught science in the State Normal School at Indiana, Pennsylvania, for six years and since then has been Professor of Biological Sciences in the West Chester State Normal School at West Chester, Pa. Meanwhile he continued chemical study and research, going to the University of Pennsylvania for direction and examination until '93 when he received his Ph.D.

For many years a large part of his time has been given to the delivery of popular lectures on science, in teachers' institutes, summer schools and chautauquas from Massachusetts to Montana, from Michigan to Georgia. He gives a week every alternate year to the New York Chautauqua, and during the coming summer will teach in the summer school of Johns Hopkins University. For four years past he has been lecturer on Botany in the Wagner Free Institute of Science in Philadelphia, staff lecturer for the University Extension Society and regular lecturer for the Department of Public Lectures in New York City.

Dr. Schmucker also is known as an author of works on popular and elementary science. His publications are, "The Study of Nature," "Under the Open Sky" and "The Columbian Elementary Geography." Membership in half a dozen prominent Scientific Societies of the country comes as a matter of course.

"WHO'S WHO" AMONG THE ALUMNI

MAJOR THOMAS L. RHOADS, A.B., M.D., Aid-de-Camp and Physician to President Taft, White House, Washington, D. C.

Major Thos. L. Rhoads, A.B., M.D., was born at Boyertown, Pa., April 10, 1870. His father, Dr. T. J. B. Rhoads, was and is a surgeon of local reputation, variously active and prominent in numerous business enterprises. Major Rhoads was prepared for college at the Boyertown High School, the Hill School, Pottstown, and the Maryland Military and Naval Academy at Oxford, Maryland. Prizes and honors were awarded him in all these schools. In 1887 he entered Muhlenberg College, was graduated and after three years at Jefferson Medical College, served as private assistant to Professors of Surgery Dr. W. Joseph Hearn and Dr. W. W. Keen for four years. At this time he filled the positions of Assistant Demonstrator of Surgery and Assistant Demonstrator of Pathology in the same institution.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War in 1898, Dr. Rhoads, with a score of other young surgeons of Philadelphia entered the country's service for the impending conflict with Spain. Dr. Rhoads selected the naval service, anticipating a naval conflict, and at the entrance examinations for a commission as medical officer in the Navy secured the highest mark ever made by a candidate for a commission. He was put in charge of the surgical work of the Naval Hospital at Washington, and retained that position during the war. When peace was declared Dr. Rhoads resigned from the Navy and resumed the practice of his profession in civil life. The increasing activity of the insurrectionists in the Philippine Islands during the following year induced him to seek active service again, and the spring of 1900 found him on the way to the Philippines as an army surgeon. On arrival at Manila his reputation had preceded him and he was immediately put in charge of the surgical work at Hospital No. 3. After a period of six months of this duty, he was ordered to active field service in Batangas Province with the First Cavalry which was then engaged in pursuing the rebel leader Malvar and his bloodthirsty band. At the end of this campaign, covering six months, he was assigned to duty at Manila in charge of the surgical service at the First Reserve Hospital.

The work at this hospital was enormous and it was while connected there that Dr. Rhoads was called upon to act as operating surgeon upon Governor Taft who had become stricken with a grave tropical malady. During Mr. Taft's invalidism, lasting several months in the hospital, an association was begun which developed into an enduring friendship. After two years of service in the Philippines, the Doctor was transferred to the Army General Hospital at San Francisco continuing there for several years, where also he became well known to the people of the city through numerous successful operations and treatment of hundreds of accident cases. In 1904 Dr. Rhoads entered on a two years' service at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point as surgeon, and was recognized as one of the most capable and popular officers ever sent to the academy. Besides his regular professional duties, he delivered a course of lectures to the cadets on the subject of Hygiene and First Aid, and took a keen interest in athletics at the Academy, being one of the coaches for the baseball team.

During the year 1906, Dr. Rhoads was travelling in different parts of the country after which he again sailed for service in the Philippines as surgeon in charge of the Division Hospital. After a variety of service in the islands on this second tour he was called upon to meet Mr. Taft, then Secretary of War, at Hong Kong, and escort him and his party to Manila. He remained on duty with the Secretary during his visit to the Islands and accompanied him on his trips of inspection throughout the Archipelago.

When Mr. Taft was elected President of the United States, one of his first acts was to order Dr. Rhoads from the Philippines to Washington, and on his arrival there made him his personal physician. In addition to this duty, Major Rhoads was detailed as an executive officer at the Walter Reed General Hospital, at Washington, and later he was made chief of the surgical service at that institution.

Major Rhoads accompanied the President on all his trips away from Washington since his election to the Presidency, some of these trips covering long distances, such as the long western trip made by the President somewhat over a year ago, and the two trips of inspection to the canal zone. Much credit is due Major Rhoads for his excellent care of the President during many trying periods of speechmaking, in one of which Mr. Taft was scheduled to make 326 addresses—he made every one of them.

In March, 1912, when Major A. W. Butt, then personal Aide to the President, left on a trip to Europe to regain his health, Major Rhoads was assigned to the position of Aide-de-Camp temporarily, in addition to his duties as physician and when the ill-fated Titanic went down carrying Major Butt to a hero's death, Major Rhoads was appointed to the position permanently. He has carried on the manifold duties of this responsible position in such a way as to elicit the warm approval of Mr. Taft and his family and even of many people all over the country who are from time to time thrown in contact with the Aide in their dealings with the President. The President's personal safety, many matters of social arrangement, keeping a record of the personal side of Mr. Taft's administration, in short many matters pertaining to the comfort and efficiency of the President's life are in the hands of Major Rhoads.

Major Rhoads has a high standing in the medical profession, is an author of authoritative papers on certain special treatments of diseases and methods of procedure in certain cases of operation in which he is expert. He has active membership in many of the leading clubs of the country. The Hon. Charles D. Hillis, private secretary to the President, and Major Rhoads were school friends, it has just developed, twenty-five years ago at the Maryland Military and Naval Academy and unexpectedly to both were appointed to their respective positions at the same time. Great was the fervor of their reunion and equally great the pleasure of Mr. Taft in their pleasant surprise.

Major Rhoads, upon assumption of the presidential office by Mr. Wilson, was asked to continue holding the same position to which Mr. Taft had appointed him. He accepted and recently rendered very efficient service in the flooded sections of Ohio.

"WHO'S WHO" AMONG THE ALUMNI

REV. FRANK N. D. BUCHMAN, Young Men's Christian Association Secretary at Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pennsylvania.

The Rev. Frank N. D. Buchman, son of Frank and Sarah Greenawalt Buchman, was born at Pennsburg, Pennsylvania, June 4, 1878. After preparing for college at Perkiomen Seminary and the Allentown High School, Mr. Buchman entered Muhlenberg College from which he was graduated in 1899. He then took a theological course at the Mt. Airy Seminary and was graduated from this institution in 1902. His ordination by the Ministerium of Pennsylvania soon followed. During his first pastorate, at the Church of The Good Shepherd, Overbrook, Philadelphia, Mr. Buchman visited Europe and made a special study of Inner Missions, meeting Pastor von Bodelschwingh in Germany, and other well known workers.

Immediately after his return from Europe he founded the first Luther Hospice in America at Overbrook, in 1904; in September, 1905, he accepted the position of house father of the Luther Hospice at Twentieth and Race Streets, Philadelphia. In 1906 he founded the first Luther Settlement in America in the same city. Mr. Buchman may be termed a pioneer in Inner Mission work in America.

After three years at the Hospice, Mr. Buchman again visited Europe, spending a year in travel and in further study both of Inner and Foreign Missions. Egypt, the Holy Land, Greece and Turkey were included in his itinerary. During his visit to Greece, Mr. Buchman was entertained by those who were close to the royal family and in Constantinople he had the privilege of taking breakfast in the Royal Palace at the invitation of the Sultan. On his return he accepted the position of Secretary to the Young Men's Christian Association at The Pennsylvania State College, the position which he is still holding.

The Young Men's Christian Association of The Pennsylvania State College enjoys the unique distinction of being the first of its kind in the student world. Men and women of prominence in the world's work are constantly challenged by the work and as a result the entire atmosphere of the institution has been changed and many men are entering Christian service. State College has become the model for the student work throughout the country. It is not an uncommon thing to have a thousand or more men attend a single meeting of the Association. The strength of Mr. Buchman's work lies in individual work with individuals. He is constantly called upon to take part in religious movements in other universities.

High tributes to Mr. Buchman's work have been paid by such eminent men as Harlan P. Beach of Yale, Robert E. Speer the authority on foreign missions, John R. Mott the leader of the Student Volunteer Movement, Charles Stelzle and Graham Taylor of Chicago.

Describing a visit to State College and its Association, the Editor of "The Continent" thus sums up Mr. Buchman's work and pays this tribute to his personality: "As for that merciless and indefatigable and tireless Young Men's Christian Association secretary, whom the unsuspecting guest really should hold in enmity to the end of his days—he is a wonder; an asset for the kingdom at this strategic point whose value is beyond computation. What he compelled the wayfaring man to do, he himself is doing all the time. Without a taint of professionalism or piosity he has literally invested his life in the lives of those hundreds of young men. His name should be remembered in gratitude at many family altars throughout his state."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

IN the fall of 1910 the students of Muhlenberg College, with the approval of the faculty and the trustees, instituted a form of self-government. A constitution was adopted by which the law interpreting power is given into the hands of the student council while the legislative power is vested in the students themselves.

Student Government can only be successful to the degree in which each individual student feels and is willing to bear the responsibilities of it. The Student Council only acts as an advisory board or student court of final appeal as the case may demand. Say what we may, student government has come to stay and no one will doubt the fact that it has helped to unite the students of Muhlenberg into one great unit through which great purposes have been and can be accomplished.

HISTORY OF EUTERPEA LITERARY SOCIETY

EVER since Euterpea was organized on September 11, 1867, she has stood for a high order of literary attainment. Her members, present and past, tell with pardonable pride and pleasure of her great educational work and the character of her loyal members. Her qualities speak forth in her membership and to that fact we attribute the goodly harvest of new men garnered last fall.

Euterpea's social functions have always been such as her members look back to with genuine pleasure. The receptions are well attended, and thus give to all her members in some degree at least, a development in finer qualities which text books cannot supply.

Her library, consisting of more than three thousand volumes on history, biography, fiction, and theology, is constantly growing. This year the sum of fifty dollars has again been appropriated for such books as a college student should read.

In taking a retrospect of the prizes won last year by Euterpea, we find that she took away first and second prizes in the Junior Oratorical Contest and one of the honors at the last commencement. For the past four years, she has furnished the Editor-in-Chief of the Ciarla. In every phase of college activity, Euterpea has lived up to her motto—"Watch and Advance." We hope that in succeeding years, she may continue to aid in preparing her members for higher efficiency of life and scholarship.

HISTORY OF SOPHRONIA LITERARY SOCIETY

WHEN Muhlenberg College was reconstituted in 1867 a new life seemed to pervade it, and a number of the undergraduates felt the need of an adequate literary society. The Sophronia Literary Society was then organized to help supply this want. She has been true to her name and has always been an indispensable supplement to the college work.

The past year has been one of splendid success. The meetings were unusually interesting and well attended. With good literary programs and special emphasis on extemporaneous speaking Sophronia has again stood for literary efficiency.

The society has not overlooked the social phase, and her successful receptions have created good fellowship among the members.

Sophronians can be justly proud of her success. For the past three years Sophronia, after being victorious in the Inter-Society Oratorical Contests, represented the college in the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contests. Last year all Muhlenberg and, especially Sophronia, rejoiced because her representative won first prize in the contest. We might here note that only once before was this honor bestowed upon Muhlenberg and that through a Sophronian orator.

But even with such a noteworthy history she is not satisfied with the past. She looks forward to the record of greater achievements. With half a hundred members upholding the "Blue and White" she is ever setting a higher standard and is ever more representative of her motto, "the End Crowns the Work." May she ever prosper and may her fair history be but as a dim light compared with her brilliant future.

MUHLENBERG CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

It is a problem in any college to get the men to give their time and energy to definite Christian activities. The great majority are heartily in favor of any movement along such lines, and are interested in seeing progress in this phase of college life, but to all of us (and who shall cast the first stone?) it often seems a difficult thing to make sacrifices for the work. We do not appreciate its importance. We say there is so much to be done in our active college world, that our time is so full, and because the results of Christian activities are not immediate and definitely apparent, we are prone to forget that efforts along these lines are ultimately more vital than any other one thing. Thus in a thoughtless way, we are careless and lax.

The association has quietly endeavored to make its influence felt, as the needs arose. Fifteen men represented us at the Student Volunteer conference held at Princeton, in November, and five delegates attended the Lutheran Student Missionary Conference at Springfield, Ohio, in December. Reports of both these conventions were made to the student body. The important movement of the Interdenominational Federation of Home Mission Activities was observed in a series of chapel talks, given by several of the students. During Lent weekly vesper services of a helpful and practical nature were conducted and as a result, a plan is now on foot, by which sufficient money will be raised to support several native missionaries in the foreign field.

We all admit that there is need for improvement in many ways, and in this connection, we would like to make a suggestion which might prove helpful. Just as our athletics has a group of Allentown citizens, who help to direct that work and constitute a permanent advisory board, acting as an anchor for the everchanging student body, for the same reasons why should not our M. C. A. have an advisory board, of several older permanent resident men, who would thus lend more stability and poise to the work?

Whatever may be said, our parting word is this: Let us all take a more personal and active interest, and let each one say to himself—"What have I done that has honestly furthered definite Christian activity at Muhlenberg?"

“THE MUHLENBERG”

“The Muhlenberg” during 1912-1913 has sought to stand for all for which a college paper should stand. It has been the organ of literary expression for the student body, the developer of talent along many lines and the connecting link between the Alumni and the college life and interests. The magazine has upheld these ideals and by so doing has been a true mirror of college life.

An unusual number of stories in the literary department has been the subject of much favorable comment on the part of our exchanges. The excellency of its stories was due no doubt to co-operation with the English department of the faculty.

The unique method of editing, which provides that each department shall in successive periods be allotted to different men, has been the reason for much of the vigor and attractiveness that characterizes the paper this year. This is particularly true of the athletic division.

The Alumni, too, are responding more willingly to its spirit and are gradually awakening to the possibilities of “The Muhlenberg.” Its circulation among them is greater than ever before and in other ways their support has been shown.

THE purpose of the organization known as the Muhlenberg Press Club is to publish news of the College in all its widely varied activities. Each member is required to report to at least one newspaper in a particular line of work, be it athletic, social, religious, or literary affairs. The idea is to advertise and advance Muhlenberg through the daily papers of Eastern United States.

The Club has at last succeeded in gaining access to the Associated Press columns and, therefore, is better able to have articles printed which otherwise would be unpublished. This year daily articles were printed in the Philadelphia papers during the football season. The hearty co-operation of every person who breathes the Muhlenberg spirit is desired by the club in furtherance of the work so valuable to the whole college.

GLEE CLUB

THE GLEE CLUB, SEASON 1912-1913

THE Glee Club is a big factor in the collegiate world, and counts one when it comes to establishing a college's reputation. The power it wields is more potent than is generally realized, not only through the merits of its concerts, but also through the impression made by the men as they pass from city to city. If the concert be well rendered, varied and artistic, it is to the great credit of the institution. If the concert be otherwise the name of the college suffers. To an even greater degree each number holds in his keeping the reputation of his Alma Mater, and her ideals and standards are judged by his actions.

Thanks to the indefatigable efforts of Leader Katz, the 1912-13 Club has far exceeded all former Clubs in rendition, variety and quality. Turn back a page and look over the program. Thanks to the work of Manager Seegers, the Club has been able to exert her influence over a wide territory, as a glance at the itinerary will testify.

The season has been highly successful in every way: better organization, more thorough training, more enjoyable concerts and larger returns. The Club has everywhere disseminated that buoyant college spirit and good, clean fellowship, which is typical of every Muhlenberg organization. The unanimous and hearty approval of the press has meant much, and all time and energies expended have seemed as nothing in comparison with the belief that the praise offered is merited.

“THE THEN,” “THE NOW” AND “THE TO-BE”

By Professor William H. Reese

TO the writer, while sitting at his desk one rainy evening some time ago, the smoke from one of the college store cigars encircling his head, the past—“The Then,” the present—“The Now,” and the future—“The To-be,” were revealed. So swiftly has Father Time rushed on his way and so great has been the development and change that it was like looking into a kaleidoscope. “Then”—a rolling field, “Then”—a levelled field with a track; “Now”—a field beautiful, as fine a field as is to be found in Pennsylvania; “To-be”—a stadium erected at 26th and Liberty Streets, with field-houses and a 220-yard straightaway. “Then,” the terraces were used as grandstands; “Then,” a stand purchased from the City League originally standing where West Park now is, at the fabulous price of $68.00, torn down and rebuilt by a Professor and the student body; “Now,” a field having stands accommodating sixteen hundred people; “To-be,” stands in the stadium seating ten thousand. “Then,” ropes to keep back the crowd (?); “Now,” a fence built largely by the subscription of friends; “To-be,” the stadium surrounded by a concrete wall with granite buffing. “Then,” our contests were with High and Preparatory Schools; “Now,” with Colleges and Universities; “To-be,” in the same class as at present. “Then,” the coach a member of the faculty schooled in the old flying wedge; “Now,” up to the minute in the modern game; “To-be,” the same efficient Kelly. “Then,” four alumni contributing to the support of athletics; “Now,” not only many alumni but friends as well, gladly laying their free will offering on the altar of the college of their love; “To-be,” hundreds of contributors, thousands of friends—for they are coming fast. "Then," no gymnasium; "Now," a "gym" inadequate for our purposes in the administration Building; "To-be" a $40,000 "gym" with separate basketball floor, swimming pool and what not. "Then" thirteen new students; "Now," sixty-five new men, due largely to our development in athletics; "To-be," a student body not to exceed two hundred but all picked men, with all courses par-excellence. "Then" students walking five blocks for meals; "Now" an elaborate Commons; "To-be" an enlarged refectory with lounging room handsomely frescoed, furnished with divans and easy chairs in leather. "Then," students walking eleven blocks on cold winter nights for their "smokes;" "Now" the college store not only for "smokes" but with many things dear to the student heart; "To-be," a department store on the campus where every student can secure all of his needed supplies. "Then" and "Now," students walking eleven blocks for "eats;" "To-be," a lunch counter with ice cream and pies on the campus, open all night. "Then," but why dwell on the past? We know something about the present, but what about the future?

You ask, what about the success of our schedule next Fall? The smoke did not reveal it, but it whispered in a still small voice, "Let your rivals look well to their laurels." But you ask, are you not a dreamer? The smoke answers, "When you advocated the building up of athletics on the true basis and stated that within ten years we should be playing out of our class, you were given the ha! ha! When upon the site of that first stand you said that within ten years we should have an enlarged stand and an enclosed field, again the ha! ha! It has been realized, however, in seven years; when you spoke of the city being back of us to an individual, financially and attending the games by the thousands, that same incredulous laugh was heard. It has been realized, however, in seven years." But you ask when is "The To-be" to be realized? Don't ask the writer, ask the smoke.

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE 1912 FOOTBALL SEASON

WELL, we're off again! At the end of the season of 1911, we found ourselves riding in a band wagon. We climbed into it the night after the F. & M. game when we trimmed them to the tune of 9-0. But finding the pace too slow due to the fact of having a harder schedule, we discarded the time honored circus vehicle for a motor-truck. We started the season at such a clip that many of our rivals felt like having us pinched for speeding! And what a pace we did hit up, not observing the traffic rules, clearing a broad path amid the excited, surprised and fearsome cry of our opponents. What do you think of the following squibs jotted down in the note book of one who had taken the trip.

The first stage of our journey led us to the institution bearing the name of a Revolutionary patriot, Lafayette, located at the forks of the Delaware—and some meeting that was! An inexperienced team facing a team of veterans! When the smoke of the first half had cleared away, the score stood in favor of Lafayette. In the second half the Cardinal and Gray played the veteran Maroon team to a standstill, they being unable to make a first down; however, they scored a touchdown on an intercepted forward pass—a spectacular forward pass with Copley on the firing line and Fetherolf on the receiving, advanced the ball far into Lafayette's territory from which place of vantage Vreeland kicked a beautiful goal from placement. All the members of the team fought hard and played well. The cohorts returning on the football special were particularly joyful, especially when Professor March, the backbone of athletics at Lafayette for many years, said, "Muhlenberg has put up the best opening game given us in years." The final score was 20 to 3.

Our next jaunt was to Gotham where we met New York University. The Violet was outplayed, but a minute before the whistle blew telling the end of the second half, N. Y. U. intercepted a forward pass which after a few rushes was carried over the line. The final score was 5 to 0 in their favor. The result of these two games was a revelation to the Muhlenberg contingent.

Harry Hillman Academy and Webb Academy were met and defeated by the respective scores of 28 to 0 and 55 to 0.

The next stage of our journey was to Newark, Delaware. As the state institution of Delaware has never defeated Muhlenberg in an athletic contest of any kind, the fans did not wonder when we returned with a 21 to 0 victory.

Gettysburg came confident and dreaming of victory, but left disgusted and dejected for they had met their Waterloo. To quote the editor of the Gettysburg paper, "It was the most disgraceful defeat Gettysburg ever received." Sad news was it not since the writer already quoted said that no team had ever been given such a send-off? The Gold and Blue's line was torn in shreds by the rapid-fire attacks of the Cardinal back field, their ends were skirted, forward passes were used at will until the battlefield collegians were completely demoralized. Five touch-downs, five goals and a field goal were scored against them and the "kids" had spanked the "mother," 38 to 7.

And then THE event. For a week the student body and the team had been waiting for the appearance of the Blue and White. For a week the pent-up enthusiasm of months was beginning to be made manifest until finally it broke and after the storm, paeans of victory were echoed and reverberated around the campus and throughout the city, for the Blue and White who boasted that they would trim us as we had never been trimmed before, returned to far-off Lancaster vanquished by a score of 9 to 0. Of that great week and the game at the end of it another has written more fully at the end of this account.

Ho-rah-ray! Ho-rah-ray! Ray Ray Ray! Lehigh! Lehigh! Lehigh! greeted the ears of the cohorts as they journeyed to the Lehigh Field before the game. One in prominence had said that if the Brown and White did not defeat Muhlenberg by a score of 35 to 0 he would not consider it a game. The lusty lunged students who were giving the yell expected a 55 to 0 victory—but how the buds of the flowers of youth are blasted. After rushing their three veterans who had been out of the game into the fray and playing their entire varsity, they were able to make only three first downs during the entire contest. Their All-American quarterback who had been the sensation of the year in circling the ends and running back punts only gained ten yards the entire game. The 7 to 3 score took so much "pep" out of the Lehigh rooters that they could not even give a cheer when the whistle blew for time.

Chilling winds and a frosting defeat greeted the Red, Black and Gold of Ursinus on Thanksgiving Day, the result being 10 to 0.

During the season every man played with a dash and a vim, but the scintillating light of the Lehigh game was Captain Bixler, the strong toed Vreeland not only scored many goals from placement but was a most consistent back-field worker. Katz, of whom it has been said by an expert, that if he were larger he would be the best Varsity guard in the country, played a most remarkable game throughout the year. Fetherolf was the Ulysses of the team diagnosing the moves and plays of the opponents like a veteran. The cool, collected, unexcitable Copley hurled forward passes with an accuracy and a consistency rarely seen. And the others? Well, they were all mighty good and deserve some particular mention, but space forbids. Lest you, kind reader, think that we have been blowing our own horn, notice what the press thinks of us.

LAFAYETTE GAME.

"Muhlenberg displayed unexpected strength, making three first downs. In the third quarter the visitors rallied and the over-confidence of Lafayette's team led to the ball being in Lafayette's territory most of the time. Muhlenberg ran the ball down to Lafayette's twenty-yard line and Vreeland kicked a perfect goal from the field."—Easton Sunday Call, September 29.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY GAME.

"The first two periods went by without a tally on either side. Muhlenberg came within an ace of getting a touchdown in the closing minute of the second period. There was a lot of loose playing in the third period, with little expectation that there would be a score, so evenly were the two sides battling."—New York Herald, Oct. 6.

HILLMAN ACADEMY GAME.

"Subs. fine showing. Muhlenberg opening its home season on Saturday by defeating Hillman Academy, Wilkesbarre, 28-0. Although five of the Varsity were out of the game on account of injuries, the local eleven rolled up a large score on their heavier opponents."—Chronicle and News, Oct. 14.

WEBB ACADEMY GAME.

"Muhlenberg's football eleven simply overwhelmed Webb Academy, running up a total of 55 to 0. While the New Yorkers were outplayed at every stage of the game, they won the admiration of the small crowd of spectators by the plucky way they stuck to their guns. The Muhlenberg team showed that they are now in good shape to meet the strong teams they are to meet from now on until the end of the season."—Daily City Item, Oct. 21.

DELAWARE GAME.

"Delaware was unable to make substantial gains and Muhlenberg had the ball most of the time."—Philadelphia Record, Oct. 27.

"Muhlenberg brought a team to Newark which was far superior to any so far this year."—Philadelphia North American, Oct. 27.

GETTYSBURG GAME.

"Muhlenberg started scoring in the first quarter. In the second quarter there was fast playing on both sides. The third period was a tug of war, neither side scoring. Gettysburg got the ball within a half foot of the goal, and in two successive line plunges, could not get over it. In the last quarter Muhlenberg showed the real strength of her team by scoring two touchdowns on two successive plays followed by 65 and 80 yard runs."—Philadelphia Ledger, Nov. 3.

FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL GAME.

"In one of the fastest games seen in this city, Muhlenberg defeated Franklin and Marshall. In the last quarter Muhlenberg showed supremacy by spoiling every one of their opponent's plays."—Philadelphia Record, Nov. 10.

"Captain Bixler got the ball and made a sensational run through the entire Franklin and Marshall team for sixty yards, carrying the ball nearly to the visitor's goal line. Skean was sent plunging into the sturdy F. & M. line, which held as if armor clad. Then Muhlenberg completely non-plussed Draper's men. Copley fell back as if for an end run, for which F. & M. made ready its most formidable defense. Instead, the Muhlenberg line thinned out and Hubbard shot towards the goal line. Copley heaved the sphere to the speeding Hubbard, who grabbed it safely. Vreeland kicked the goal."—Daily City Item, November 11.

TRAINING FOR F. & M. GAME

LEHIGH GAME.

"Surprise for the Lehigh team. Lehigh wins, 7 to 3, but only after a very hard battle. Muhlenberg scored first. Lehigh scores in the second period after a fumbled punt on Muhlenberg's 10-yard line. Even in the second half, when Bailey, Crichton and Wylie were in the line-up, Muhlenberg held the Lehigh team time and time again."—Bethlehem Times, November 18.

"Lehigh wins on a fumbled punt. Muhlenberg outplays the conquerors of Swarthmore, but looses fierce battle. Powerful Cardinal and Gray backs smash up Lehigh's line for big gains."—Philadelphia Record, Nov. 17.

"Muhlenberg played a great game from start to finish and must be given every ounce of credit she deserves."—(Lehigh University), Brown and White, Nov. 19.

URSINUS GAME.

"Muhlenberg warriors too strong for Ursinus. A varied attack and forward pass drove the Collegeville boys to a defensive game during most of the contest. Ursinus was actually within six inches of the goal line, but it was then that real class told, and try as they would they could not penetrate the stonewall defense of the Cardinal and Gray, and lost the ball on downs."—Morning Call.

"After the first half, Ursinus came upon the field determined to score. Twice the ball was carried up to Muhlenberg's goal line, but each time Muhlenberg, by splendid work, prevented what seemed a certain touchdown. On the second time they were within six inches of the goal line, but lost the ball on downs. No player was hurt during the contest, although several took the full count at times. Mitterling was taken out of the game during the last period in an unconscious condition as a result of being unintentionally struck in the face by a tackler's hand on running back a punt. After a hot shower bath, he regained his senses and was in good condition."—Ursinus Weekly, Dec. 2.

From the above it might seem that we are all suffering from Dementia Americana cranium ponderosum, but this is not true; we are still modest, unassuming and crying for more work, harder work and lots of it. From the condition of the spirit at present it appears that next season we shall exchange our sixty horsepower engine for a one hundred horsepower, and instead of running on low gear, we shall shift to high gear doing greater things, winning greater victories, thereby securing greater renown and prestige for fair Muhlenberg. If you don't believe it keep your eyes on us and see.

F. & M. WEEK

As is the habit with most weeks, the one of the F. & M. game, was ushered in on a Sunday, but somehow this day of rest seemed different from similar occasions. It was a day of decided unrest. Many were the thoughts: "Jove, I wish it were to-day a week." There was a peculiar tang in the Muhlenberg atmosphere; an indefinable longing to do something—anything but keep quiet. Thus posters were cut and stamped, and the chalk was kept busy.

When Monday came, in every nook and corner in every conceivable place, there were constant reminders, memory joggers and searching questions: "Will YOU be on the side lines this week?" "Are YOU coming to the Smoker?" "Do you know about Orpheum night?" "Are YOU boosting—boosting—boosting, and then boosting some more?" After chapel, the pent up excitement vented itself in a Pe-rade, and then promptly augmented itself in speeches by Bossard and Pop Reese, and they surely are class at that.

Monday and Tuesday, as well as other days too numerous to mention, saw the side lines packed, and heard the barking cheers, and Tuesday told Wednesday that she should pass it on to Saturday, that there'd be something doing.

Wednesday did not have to be told. Once again the flame of holy ardor, brought about the expurgation of the 10 o'clock hour, and the old chapel trembled with cheers, and the Student Body drank another deep draught of the goblet of Pop's enthusiasm, and it went to their heads like wine.

Wednesday didn't tell Thursday anything—there was no need. Gad, what a smoker! Every man there, and what a hardy, vigorous spirit! Speeches? Take a look: Brown, Bailey, Bossard, Selp, Haas, Simpson, Brooks, Rupp, Bauman (! ! !), Stewart, Kelly and Reese. Did the window panes in the refectory quiver in terror? Did the songs and cheers make ear-drums hum?

Friday came, and again the dear old adage "never let college work interfere with college life" prevailed. There were speeches in chapel by Fritsch, Horn and "Wacky," and a real, a very real PE-RADE, with a long field practice on the marching "M." The Orpheum did a big business that night. A hundred and fifty Muhlenberg men held down the bald-headed rows, and the bill was the kind "you want to see."

The day of the game dawned. Who could study? Who wanted to eat? Many there were who strolled about with a blase indifference, but what a boiling, seething turmoil was hidden under that assumed exterior!

Have you ever seen a football game—a real game, on a cold bracing November day? Look at the crowds—the stands are groaning. Have you ever heard the roar of the eager cheers? Have you felt the thrill of watching two balanced teams in a gruelling struggle? And best of all, have you ever seen your team win in the last quarter, through a spectacular 40-yard run, followed by a brilliant forward pass? If you saw the F. & M. game, you saw all this. If you did not, we extend our sympathies.

Victory is good. The fruits of victory are good; their effects are far-reaching. The immediate effects are boisterous, as the pe-rade down town, the speeches at the monument, the general celebration.

And another Sabbath dawned, and there was a feeling of "the Sunday after the week before," and, say, it was worth while to get that feeling. Yes, victory is good.

VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM

RESUMÉ OF THE VARSITY BASKETBALL SEASON

AFTER a lapse of several years, intercollegiate basketball has again been taken up at the college. The desire for this athletic activity had been voiced by every member of the student body, so the board of directors of the Athletic Association, after the marked success of our football season saw fit to grant our request. Taking into consideration that this was the first varsity basketball team in years at Muhlenberg, we have met with surprising success in spite of a hard schedule. The untiring efforts of our all-round coach and the hearty support of each student aided much in the success of the season. It is gratifying to report the following record to all those interested among our students, alumni and friends:

Although the first game was a defeat, Muhlenberg's five, pitted against what is considered one of the strongest teams in the East this year, played the Lehigh University team to a standstill in the first half. Had it not been for the out-of-bound rules which were new to our men, we would have reported a game more surprising. The floor work of our boys was exceptionally good in both halves. Even though the game was a defeat, it was far from humiliating.

In the second game of the season played with Schuylkill Seminary, the wearers of the Cardinal and Gray put up a stiff fight, but the fates seemed against them again. This time it was the twelve-inch extension baskets which handicapped our men. Despite this, however, the team was plucky and gained as many goals from the floor as its opponents.

The first home game which was played against Lebanon Valley College, entertained an aggregation of Allentown alumni and friends. This time the team showed its real caliber. It never lost the lead during the entire game. Every player of the local team was continually on the job and the result was the low score of the opponents.

At Myerstown, the team met the strong Albright College quintet, made a creditable showing, but the opposing star players were too strong when our limited experience is considered. Hartman, Albright's star, alone scored thirty points out of the forty-four.

Our second home game was played with the strong Schuylkill Seminary team. Having defeated us on their own floor in the first game with them, they came here determined to repeat the victory, but their hopes were blighted. In the first half, the game was undecisive, Muhlenberg leading by three points only. The whistle for the beginning of the second half meant a fight to the finish for supremacy, but a few minutes of play showed the tide moving in our direction, and we soon secured a safe lead for the rest of the game. Our team avoided all attempts at individual playing and demonstrated better team work than in any previous game.

In the next game our team met the hard and experienced local Y. M. C. A. team. The floor was familiar to both teams, so that a hard struggle ensued. The national rules were new to our men, causing the calling of frequent fouls on both sides. Roughness was so manifest in the game that supporters of both sides lost interest to a certain extent. Nevertheless our men displayed the proper spirit even though defeated.

Two days time put our team in their proper form again when they outplayed St. Joseph's College to the tune of forty-six to twenty. Throughout the game, passing was the interesting feature, the ball being repeatedly carried from one end of the cage to the other. Several substitutions were made at the end of the first half since victory was practically assured. Hubbard and Afflerbach, our clever forwards, landed sixteen goals in this game which was the beginning of a series of victories to the end of the season.

Following the satisfactory game with the Philadelphia college, our boys were again victorious, this time over our old football rivals, Delaware State College, at Newark, Delaware. By the general good work of the team and the starring of the forwards and center a score of forty-four to thirteen resulted.

On March first, our team went to Philadelphia where it defeated in a well-played game the representatives of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. The end of the first half of the game showed our opponents in the lead, but the pluck of the Cardinal and Gray team in the last few minutes of play gave the victory to us.

Home again, our warriors scalped St. Peter's College team of Jersey City. The game was lively and clean throughout. A few substitutions on account of players who were ill had to be made. The "subs" showed up well so that the game did not lack interest as the score of twenty-eight to twenty-one indicates. The attendance as at most of the games was encouraging.

The game with Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester was very rough, and the long floor seemed to bewilder our boys, who, nevertheless, put up a plucky fight to the end of the game, only to lose by the score of twenty-three to fifteen.

Next day they met the Lebanon Vally College team at Lebanon, and for the second time this season completely outclassed their opponents. Lebanon Valley even though this time on their own floor could do nothing to stop the superior passing of the Cardinal and Gray. The latter were cheered on by a crowd of loyal rooters to the seventh victory of the season.

The remaining game of the schedule was a complete slaughter of the crippled Philadelphia College of Pharmacy men who were minus their regular center. For this and other reasons the game was too one-sided to be very interesting and MUHLENBERG closed her renewed basketball activity with a sixty-nine to twenty-four victory.

THE ANNUAL BOWL FIGHT

IN a downpour of rain and a veritable sea of mud, September the eighteenth witnessed the sophomores and the freshmen march forth with determination on their faces and grease on their bodies to engage in the annual bowl scrap. The experience of the sophs was offset by a slight excess in the number of the freshies who had made a high resolve to win out since matters were fairly equalized.

The first half which lasted ten minutes ended in a nothing to nothing score, for neither side had succeeded in touching the opposing bowlman with the big wooden bowl. Geiss and Freed served as leaders of the sophs in the first and second halves, respectively, but the sturdy Davidson led the freshies in both halves.

The second half of five minutes was engaged in with even more vigor than the first and one of the fiercest struggles of years took place. The sophs fought well, yet the green and wiry freshies succeeded in slipping through their grasp and when the whistle blew and the hands touching the bowl were counted, a decisive victory had been won by the freshies to the tune of forty-five to twenty. The outcome was quite unusual, for very rarely does it happen that the experienced sophs are subjected to the humiliation of a defeat. Despite the rain, the fight was witnessed by most of the upper classmen who thoroughly enjoyed the grand mix-up.

SOPH-FRESH BASKETBALL SERIES

ON Wednesday, February 12th, the sophomores and freshmen opened their inter-class basketball series. The teams were fairly evenly matched as the low scores in the games indicate. The sophomores seemed confident of winning the contests, but the plucky freshmen by no means despaired of ultimate success although the first game was a defeat for them by an eighteen to eight score.

Greatly encouraged by their first victory, the sophomores went into the second game with vim and vigor, but their opponents strengthened by the addition of Afflerbach made a splendid showing, and the best and hardest fought game of the series resulted in a victory for the freshmen by the close score of twelve to nine. The third game meant much to either side, but 1916 which had developed strong team work, again defeated 1915 to the tune of thirteen to seven. The final game resulted in a decisive victory for the freshmen who rolled up a score of nineteen to nine, thereby winning the series. Miller played a good steady game for the sophomores while Brubaker and Witmer proved the mainstays of the freshman team. Result of the series—Freshmen 3, Sophomores 1.

CLASS DAY

NORTH GROVE, MUHLENBERG CAMPUS

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 11, 1912.

REVIVING a custom, which has not been observed since 1905, the Class of 1912 held a class-day and ivy planting exercises. The occasion proved so successful and so thoroughly enjoyable, that, hereafter, each June will witness a similar jollification. A beautiful arbored platform, artistically decorated, was erected in a cool shaded spot in the beautiful old grove on North Campus. It was one of those rare June days, and amid surroundings that were ideal, one and all spent a most pleasurable afternoon.

The full class of twenty-five, in cap and gown, occupied the platform, while their friends were seated about them on the grassy knolls under the trees. The program was opened at 2 o'clock with a selection by George's orchestra, after which Ernest J. Reiter, president of the class, delivered the address of welcome. Robert G. Kleckner read the class poem, which was a gem, reflecting great credit on the author. Walter W. Brossman gave a highly humorous history of their progress through Muhlenberg: a progress, sometimes marked by storm and stress, but frequently otherwise. James Flynn Henninger caused more hilarity by his witty prognostications of the future lives to be led by his fellows: "All is not gold that glitters." Following another selection by the orchestra, Harry M. Wertz told of the hobbies of his class-mates, presenting each with some article suggestive of his peculiar traits. When every member had received his gift, the speaker called upon George Wagner, landscape engineer about the college, and on behalf of the class presented him with a diploma as landscape artist.

Following this, came the more serious side of the exercises. The mantle oration was delivered by Herbert B. Frederick, in which he advised the younger students as to the duties which lay before them, speaking from the experiences gained by himself and his class-mates during their sojourn at college. He also conferred the mantle on President Drehs of the Junior class. Jacob S. Savacool delivered the class farewell, extending the appreciation of all, to the faculty, the athletic association, the coach, and all connected with the institution, for the courtesies and helpful sympathy extended to the graduates while they were studying for their diplomas.

A class song followed, after which all adjourned to the front of the Administration Building, where the ivy was planted. Clarence D. Hummel delivered the ivy oration, and at its close the Alma Mater was sung, which ended the afternoon's program.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES

College Chapel, Wednesday Afternoon, June 12, 1912.

T the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees it was decided to add a course in Italian to the college curriculum, which will be in charge of Prof. John D. M. Brown, of Millersville, who succeeds Prof. Colin C. Alexander, A.M., as instructor in English. Professor Alexander leaves to complete his work at Columbia.

The report of the treasurer showed that out of the total endowment fund of $278,000, only $162 remained uninvested. A deficit of $3,000 was reported in the current funds, and a balance of over $2,000 in the building fund. The committee on the refectory reported that good progress was being made on the new building, which, without a doubt, would be ready for occupancy at the opening of the fall term.

President Haas presented a report for the faculty, but had no specific recommendations to make, as that matter is usually considered at the board's semi-annual meeting.

The trustees decided to renew the contract with Coach Kelly for another year.

Just fears were entertained that an additional dormitory building would have to be erected in the near future, as all the old rooms were reported engaged, and since the outlook for an unusually large freshman class was very promising.

The following officers were elected: Major Enos R. Artman, President; Rev. Dr. W. D. C. Keiter, Secretary; O. F. Bernheim, Treasurer; Rev. J. C. Rausch, Rev. Dr. W. D. C. Keiter, Rev. A. Steimle, Rev. C. M. Jacobs, Reuben J. Butz, Esq., Dr. D. D. Fritch, Charles F. Mosser, Dr. Howard S. Seip, Major Enos R. Artman, E. M. Young, Rev. Dr. John A. W. Haas, ex-officio, as Executive Committee; Rev. A. Steimle, Dr. D. D. Fritch and Rev. Dr. W. D. C. Keiter constitute the Allentown Preparatory School Committee.

The following members whose terms expired this year were re-elected: Rev. James Becker, R. J. Butz, Dr. D. D. Fritch, George K. Mosser, Samuel Potteiger, Rev. Charles Rausch, Rev. G. F. Spieker, D.D., Rev. J. E. Whitteker, D.D. C. E. Lantz, of Lebanon, was elected to succeed E. K. Snell, of Pottstown, and Rev. John Umbenhenn, of Pottsville, to succeed Rev. Samuel A. Ziegenfuss, D.D., of Ambler.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

College Chapel, Wednesday, June 12, 1912.

The annual alumni meeting was held in the College Chapel immediately after the reunions of the Euterpean and Sophronian Literary Societies, and was largely attended.

The Class of 1912 was received into membership, and there were various discussions centering about the arousal of a more vigorous co-operation among the alumni as a whole. Several three minute addresses were made, and these were followed by the main address of the morning by Prof. Samuel C. Schmucker, Ph.D., '82, of the West Chester Normal School.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, a dinner was served in the basement of the Administration Building, a feature of which was the enjoyable music rendered by the violinist, Joseffer.

THE ANNUAL FOOTBALL BANQUET

HE annual banquet in honor of the 1912 football team was a splendid success, and justly so, for this team gave Muhlenberg the biggest boost she ever received through any kind of athletics. Members of the student body, alumni and friends of Muhlenberg from far and near to the number of 175 gathered at the Hotel Allen on the evening of December 17th to show appreciation to the team for their work, in the form of a complimentary dinner. It was a brilliant event in every respect, from the elaborate menu served by the hotel management, to the brilliant exchange of wit between the alumni, and the songs and cheers that resounded through the corridors. The city of Allentown never knew such spirit as prevailed that evening, and it was all due the gridiron warriors and Coach Kelly who brought fame to the college and city.

The banquet hall was gaily decorated with cardinal and gray pennants and banners intermingled with the national colors at every angle. Music was furnished by the Allen Orchestra. Maximilian Joseffer, the popular artist, gave a number of splendid selections on the violin during the early courses, accompanied by Professor Berryman on the piano.

It was shortly before eleven o'clock when Lawrence H. Rupp, local district attorney and an alumnus of Muhlenberg, as toastmaster, made introductory remarks in which he said: "Muhlenberg is on the map," to the keen delight of all. He then introduced Dr. Haas, our worthy president, who spoke in part as follows: "There is one song on the program that always makes my blood tingle, and that is 'Fight! Fight! Fight!' There is a necessity for fight in nature and in man. Some people think that college is a peaceful place to sleep in. College is a place for the survival of the fittest. There is no room for mental, moral, or even physical cripples. Muhlenberg itself is making a fight for recognition. Allentown and all friends of higher education in this part of the country should feel their responsibility to the institution. As our work is carried on we are going deeper into debt, but the battle must be won and we are not going to lie down!"

Judge Horace Heydt of Carbon County, was next called upon. He showed deep interest in athletics by a speech in which he emphasized "the knowing how" as the great need in this life. Men in every line of work are paid for knowing how.

The next speaker was Edgar J. Lumley, president of the Allentown Chamber of Commerce. He stated that he had the highest regard for Muhlenberg, and among other complimentary things, that the college athletics had been a great advertisement of the city of Allentown.

At this time another city was heard from through Hon. William Rick, ex-mayor of Reading and an alumnus of Muhlenberg. He paid high tribute to Coach Kelly and his team. He also said that Allentown could be proud of old Muhlenberg, and that in a hundred years from now the city would be known by Muhlenberg as Cambridge is known by Harvard. He brought kindest greetings from Reading.

But now the biggest surprise of the evening was sprung. Samuel N. Potteiger of Reading, came to pay honors to the team. He presented a handsome silver football, on which all the scores of the season were engraved to Captain George Bixler for the athletic trophy room.

William L. Katz, '13, represented the student body, and spoke of the growth of its spirit during his college career.

When Harry Cressman, '13, was called upon, it was the coach's time to smile, since through the former the student body presented our worthy leader in athletics with a handsome gold watch. As the coach stood up to speak, he was greeted with the, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" His slogan as usual was "Work! Work! Work!"

Professor Reese reviewed football as a game from the pre-Christian era down to the present time, after which he presented the coveted letter "M" to the eighteen warriors. He explained the meaning of the letter as "Memory, Marked, Muhlenberg, Men." An innovation was announced in the awarding to each senior who had won two or more "M's" a fine cardinal and gray blanket bearing stars indicating the number of years played.

When the election of Skean as captain for the 1913 team had been declared, the banquet was brought to a close by singing the Alma Mater.

ONE of the most interesting events of the Junior year ist der Junior Ausflug, eine Tradition gehalten für mehr als zehn Jahre. The event as it occurred on April 15th, without a doubt proved the most exciting and interesting of Ausflugs in years. (Sag' nichts). When the day came the weather was very unfavorable and everybody thought the Juniors would postpone their Ausflug, but not so. In spite of the rain the two baseball teams, the Ministers and the Pagans, amid the roar of a multitude, trotted on the field and played a six inning game. The best baseball critics and fans pronounced it the fastest and best played game ever pulled off in this section. The score stood 2-2 up to the fifth inning when old Jupiter Pluvius, upon the constant petition of the Ministers intervened for them. The precipitation came so fast that the pitcher could no longer see the form of the catcher. Sliding became so easy that a player could simply sit down at one base and slide to the next. Thus the Ministers were enabled to win. At this point also, Nenow who was playing a strong game at third base for the Pagans, was no longer able to hold himself down to the slippery surface and was carried along by one of Zierner's speedy throws. Hap and the ball were finally recovered near Dr. Haas' house, but not until the Ministers had made enough runs to put the game on ice. The final score was 6-2, in the Minister's favor. The game was for the greater part a pitcher's duel between Heuer and Phillips. The score and line-up were as follows:

MINISTERS

	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Phillips, P	-	2	3	1	0	1
Heilman, 2B	-	4	1	1	0	0
Taylor, SS	-	3	1	1	0	0
Leisey, C	-	3	0	0	13	5

Fry, LF	-	3	0	0	0	0
Kidd, CF	-	3	1	1	0	0
Crouthamel, RF	-	3	0	0	0	1
Total	-	24	6	4	15	6

Struck out by Phillips 13, Heuer 7, Hoehle 2; Two Base Hit, Taylor 1, Phillips 1, Gebert 1; Base on Balls, Phillips 1, Hoehle 2, Heuer 3; Hit by Pitcher, Fry, Nenow.

At six-thirty sharp, Diehl's big motor truck arrived at the dorms and took the jolly bunch of Juniors off on their flight to Pleasant Corner. The trip was pleasant in spite of the rain. The feed was unique, country ham, chicken and waffles predominating. "Pop" Reese was the guest of honor on the occasion, gave a most delightful talk and drew a splendid picture of the Senior year. The toasts were of a very high order as follows:

SEPTEMBER.

3. First arrivals greeted by Coach Kelly.
4. Football practice begins. Material looks promising.
5. More "huskies" arrive.
6. Refectory nearing completion. "I wonder what kind of grub they'll give us?"
7. Copley goes to Pergola.
8. The fellows take a day off and scout around town.
9. Work on field stiffens.
10. Students blow in. First shipment of greens for the campus. All note the improvements: fence, grandstand and dining hall.
11. First meal at the commons. Beer shakes hands with everybody.
12. College opens. Dr. Owens of Lafayette makes address. The happy greetings of old friends, and the pleasure of making new acquaintances. Soph posters up.
13. Fixing of rooms. Exchange of reminiscences and sizing up of new men. New "Profs" are met.
14. Sophs beat Fresh in football, 19-0.
15. Signs of home sickness among the unsophisticated. Pious ones get soaked in the rain.
16. Classes begin. Warm weather—not much done.
17. Brossman smokes his first cigar. Nenow wears a Belmont and is unrecognized.
18. Bowl-fight. Sophs licked, 45-20, in a pouring rain. Impossible! There's no use kicking at the officials.
19. Orpheum manager reports increased business for the last week.
20. Smoker given in Sophronia to new men. Some speechifying. Bill Bowsher says fifteen consecutive words, and awes three freshmen.
21. Tough scrimmage. Bill Scott visits the old place. "Fussers" get busy.
22. Fresh put up their posters, and incidently take them down. Yiengst goes on an expedition to Cetronia. Nurses appear in the afternoon.
23. Dr. and Mrs. Haas return from European trip, and lunch in the commons. Waiter gets so excited that he breaks three dishes.

24. Fry makes horrible discovery that his beloved Pocono logs have been confiscated. Rain spoils the first day of the Fair.
25. Nenow insists that his knowledge of architecture is at an end when it comes to building a dog kennel.
26. Aviators fly over campus.
27. Dr. Haas gets off annual joke concerning going to the Fair to see the fair. Final practice for Lafayette game.
28. Lafayette 20, Muhlenberg 3. Special train to Easton. Second half an exhibition of our real strength.
29. A calm, quiet day of peaceful, soft repose, except for the fact that Steve Royer has a date with a Sixth Ward dame.
30. Speeches and song practice in chapel. Muhlenberg spirit six feet deep.

OCTOBER.

1. Heuer and "Dutch" on the sick list. The latter refuses to wag his anterior extremity.
2. Pandemonium reigns supreme in Student Body meeting, when new amendments are discussed. M. C. A. donates a piano to the refectory.
3. Juniors have first quiz. Lecture: "Pedagogues Abroad." On the side—we have met a few pedagogues at home.
4. Dr. Haas announces that Ph.B. sophs will have to take regular scientific Math. Temperature drops 29° during the night.
5. Muhlenberg loses to N. Y. U., 6-2. Gloom bugs in evidence. Ziemer discovers that it is a difficult thing to purchase sauer kraut on Broadway. Reisner returns with a real collegiate cane.
6. Too few perambulate towards divine worship. Jensen makes his regular devotional call.
7. Work on paving Chew St. makes headway.
8. Unusually rough "rough-house harmonies" in Rhoads.
9. "Dutch," improved, wags his tail with his accustomed pep. Duerschner is rapidly deteriorating under the influence of college life; he goes to "movies" once a week.
10. Lecture: "A Retrospect on Browning"—quite erudite. Shook says "gosh."
11. Fence gets a coat of paint. Kauffman attends formal dinner in a full dress suit and a red tie. "Hamburg Item" has an important bit of news concerning Phillips.
12. Muhlenberg 28. Hillman 0. Team pretty well banged up. Waiters appear in white coats.
13. A good deal like October 6.
14. Glee club try-outs. Judges have earache all evening.
15. Billy Bryan pleads for return of tools; he viciously asserts that the fellows are "full of wise saws." Football smoker.
16. Seniors place their class banner in the refectory. Unusually bracing ozone.
17. Lecture: (Naughty) "England." Young Fry takes up a collection to get a hair cut, and makes arrangements to have several sofa pillows made in loving and grateful remembrance of the occasion.
18. Fellows attend last day of Institute. Unangst mistaken for Nathan in Sixth Ward.
19. Muhlenberg wallops Webb, 55-0. Practice game; things haven't started yet.

20. Jensen makes seventeenth call on same girl—which seventeen calls occurred on seventeen consecutive evenings. Yiengst goes to church with a brand new "Teddy bear" hair cut.
21. A fresh or two see their first ber-li-cue. "How rare is innocence."
22. Fritsch attends chapel—great excitement.
23. Woodrow Wilson Club meets. Beds extracted from Rhoads by "400."
24. A little aqueous fluid injected into "400's" sleeping quarters, by Rhoads, which has become thoroughly organized and acts as one man. "War and rumors of war."
25. Bull Moose meeting at college—lots of Bull. Some stiff quizzes; some blue feelings.
26. Muhlenberg 21, Delaware 0. The beginning of a series of real victories.
27. Quiet day for all except Sunday School teachers, and it is not very noisy for them.
28. Unusually large bunch at Mealeys.
29. Noble and Taylor No. 2 are taught better manners by the Sophs. Taylor No. 1 is highly incensed.
30. Rousing cheer practice and a Pe-rade. Speeches from faculty. Simpson, in his "spiel," twists "that old felt hat of mine" almost to shreds.
31. Hallowe'en parade. Lots of parties. Fry learns to control his little finger in cheer leading.

AT WORK

NOVEMBER.

1. Sleepiness a prevailing quantity; nobody got to bed last night until to-day. Gettysburg team arrives.
2. Muhlenberg 38, Gettysburg 7. 'Nuf ced.
3. Preparations made for F. & M. week. Heavy frost. Clear.
4. A number of the men go home to vote. Rousing cheer practice. Speeches in chapel by Bossard and Reese. Influence of 38-7 score is manifest.
5. Biggest crowd yet on side lines. Snappy practice in chapel. Pe-rade.
6. Field practice in beating the marching "M" into shape.
7. The best smoker ever held on Muhlenberg Campus. Do or Die. See write-up on F. & M. week.
8. Speeches in chapel. Student body at the Orpheum. Copley fussed by a pair of brown eyes.
9. Muhlenberg 7, F. & M. 0. 'Nuf ced again. One big time down town.
10. Physical and mental reaction; mostly physical.
11. Kauffman, Fox and Barner hold a contest in eccentric locomotion. Kauffman wins.

12. Beer renounces dancing; takes an oath against that physical exercise.
13. Husky Raker attends breakfast. Waiter strike barely avoided.
14. A. H. S. Juniors give a dance. Why should this be mentioned? Moyer goes out driving, and returns at 7 A. M.
15. Parker goes rabbit hunting, but forgets to take shells with him. Cressman dissipates by going to the Orpheum.
16. Muhlenberg 3, Lehigh 7. Some game—some crowd—some surprise. Is Allentown with us?
17. Usual Sabbath atmosphere. "Dutch" goes down town.
18. Rhoads hall puts up an art gallery on the first floor.
19. Lecture: "American Humorists." Kidd disappears.
20. A sachet-pussy odoriferizes the campus. "Dutch" and Kidd return.
21. Juniors place class banner in the commons. Taylor No. 1 contradicts Dr. Haas and is unquenchable.
22. Bunch of fifteen leave for Student Missionary Convention at Princeton.
23. Committee appointed to look into the matter of "How to become a member of the Press Club."
24. A good deal like September 29.
25. A freshman asks Bauman to describe a velocipede.
26. A dandy smoker. Simpson the hero of the evening.
27. College closes—Thanksgiving recess. Some Balkan difficulties when freshmen present a turkey to Wacky.
28. Muhlenberg 10, Ursinus 0. Big game—big crowd—lots of studes around. Dance in the refectory.
29. Sudden exodus "zu Hause."
30. Mighty few left. Things are sort of slow.

DECEMBER.

1. Just about like yesterday. Big Muhlenberg football write-up in the North American.
2. All back and on the job. One or two cases of indigestion.
3. Quinn and Gebert assisted by Skean, make it warm for a certain vagrant gentleman, who wishes to enter Rhoads at 2:30 A. M.
4. Sophs put fresh through the mill. Some stunts.
5. M. C. A. cabinet leaves for Springfield, Ohio, to attend Lutheran Student Missionary Conference.
6. The football bonfire. No college. A fitting close to such a season.
7. Legg asks why the faculty does not have to attend chapel.
8. Rain.
9. First basketball practice. Heavy and hard scrimmage at Mealey's. Tickets given away for the day after to-morrow.
10. Fritsch has visited tonsorial parlor. Merry Widow at the Lyric.
11. For a brief review of how the evening was spent, see diary for December 9.
12. Muhlenberg night at the Lyceum.
13. Euterpean Reception and Dance to the new members.
14. Cutey Richards surprises everybody by being grouchy.
15. Paper boy does not turn up—consternation.
16. Toecke reports on Springfield Conference. Freihofer, Moehling and Duerschner plan a trip to the Lyric on next Monday afternoon.

17. The classiest football banquet the Allen ever saw. Awarding of "M's." Slean elected captain.
18. Ettinger (student) smiles, and massages his face with Daggett and Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream, afterwards.
19. Coach Kelly goes home for Christmas. Zierner talks excitedly to Dr. Haas, and is accused of speaking Hebrew. Unangst is interested.
20. College closes for the Holidays. Christmas cheer considerably in evidence.
21. Campus assumes a vacant vacation look.
22. Cleaning committee chants "All alone, all alone," in a high, sweet falsetto.

JANUARY.

5. A few come strolling from home to their Alma Mater.
6. All on deck. College opens.
7. Many resolve fervently never to make another resolution. What's the use.
8. Pop has the "runitix." Feels blue—acts blue.
9. Coach Kelly gets married. Hurrah! Lyceum has a mighty good show this week.
10. First Glee Club concert in Perkasio—huge success. Who took out Quinn's bed?
11. Say, it's cold; a good deal like the eleventh of last January.
12. Hubbard, Vreeland and Kauffman go to church morning and evening.
13. Reddy Miller stays in all evening. No, he is not sick.
14. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly arrive. Sophronia Reception and Dance to the new men.
15. First basketball game. Muhlenberg 24, Lehigh 36. Something like football game, eh?
16. Kidd gets a letter from his Bath Queen. Looks disconcerted.
17. Schuylkill Seminary 22, Muhlenberg 18.
18. "Dutch" under the weather. Looks pessimistic and slightly melancholy.
19. Sometimes this is a slow joint on Sundays.
20. "Dutch" much worse; his "story" hangs limp.
21. Plea made for a "No Noise Movement" in behalf of "Dutch's" nerves.
22. Fry takes one of his jaunts to Philadelphia—on business. Do they have sisterly love down there as well as brotherly love?
28. Coach accompanied by coachess take a stroll.
24. A kind of murky mental gloom seems to permeate the campus; exams are coming. Glee Club Concert at Kutztown.
25. "Going to the show to-night?" "Not on your life. 'Mid-tears next week." Basketball game: Lebanon Valley 20, Muhlenberg 35.
26. Erudition, learning and scholarship seem rampant.
27. Mid-year's begin. Curses. "Dutch" shuffles off this terrestrial globe. Alas, poor dog!
28. Painful extraction of knowledge is slowly progressing.
29. How long, oh, how long—and this is only the middle of the week.
30. 8 P. M., lights blown out. Pretty poor sort of a joke at a crucial time like this.
31. A few of the gloom bugs disappear. Enter, a little joy; but very little.

FEBRUARY.

1. Small exodus homewards for a day of recuperation. Albright 44, Muhlenberg 21.
2. Ground-hog sees his shadow, as do some of those who took the exams.

3. Condition list posted. Life is one (annoying) thing after another, anyhow.
4. Fast-nacht cakes for supper. Some of the men usher in Lent at a Sorority Dance.
5. Skean and Seegers inaugurate an anti-swearing society on the basis of fines. It becomes a fad.
6. Trimmed up Schuylkill Seminary to the tune of 36-22.
7. Dr. Haas, on the strength of the fact "that a class with one condition can afford to be sporty," locks late-comers out. Sorrow among delinquents.
8. Potts can report $.76 to his name, and is in high spirits.
9. Hap goes to church. (Slight earthquake reported.)
10. Lent has small effect on the Mealey delegation. Bausch busy on football schedule.
11. Matt Richards takes an enforced stroll through "the distant hills of Catsauqua." Gets in 3:59 A. M. Temperature, 12°.
12. Crouthamel goes fussing. Perhaps this fact will never reach the public as he is editor of this book.
13. Town Y. M. C. A. defeats us in basketball, 32-19.
14. Dr. Haas makes a soul-stirring appeal in chapel: (1) That we masticate each mouthful of food 32½ times; (2) That we do not dent or bite off the spoons, and should the latter happen, that we do not swallow the portion which we have thoughtlessly bitten off; (3) That, we do not use our knives as toboggans, especially in the eating of peas.
15. Unusually good hot-cakes, this morning. "400's" room is "mussed."
16. The editor of this calendar is a great admirer of Sunday, in many ways, but it is a difficult subject to handle in this connection.
17. A. C. W. Senior class is at Mealey's this evening. Sufficient has been said for to-day.
18. Reese reads list of conditions. Much pain and mortification.
19. Tryouts for Dramatics. "All the world's a stage, etc." "We stood on the bridge, etc."
20. Ettinger ends his hour with: "Gentlemen, was this all I assigned?"
21. St. Joseph's 20, Muhlenberg 46. Anti-swearing corporations are considering a central organization, perhaps, to have its headquarters in New York.
22. Purim Ball. Ungy and Fry absent. They have fallen away from the faith.
23. Nenow claims to be more at home in a full dress suit, than in his usual attire.
24. Dr. Haas appears in one of the store's cardinal and grey knitted ties. Also buys a Hershey almond bar.
25. A rumor is afloat that Skean has talked to a girl over the 'phone.
26. Fresh beat the Sophs in basketball. Good night.
27. Dr. Haas makes unusually short assignments to the Juniors: Angell chapters III, IV and V; Pillsbury chapter, IX; Judd, pages 122-346; Larger James chapters IX-XIII inclusive, and write out the experiments found in Seashore in chapters 3-4.
28. Muhlenberg 42, Delaware 13. (Read diary for February 27 again.)

ALBERT C. H. FASIG, M.S., born September 18, 1888, Reading, Pa.; graduated Reading High School, 1906; entered Sophomore at Muhlenberg College, graduated 1909; post-graduate course, M.S., 1910; employed by the Board of Health, Reading, as chemist in the Department of Milk and Meat Inspection; elected Instructor in the Department of Natural and Applied Science at Muhlenberg College, March 1, 1913.

MARCH.

1. Muhlenberg trims up P. C. P., 31-27. Freed makes his first successful effort in keeping a date.
2. Hap is seen in church again. The explanation of this fact was seen sitting four pews in front of him.
3. Dramatic Association runs over the play: "The House Next Door."
4. Inter-Society Oratorical Contest. Fry, first. Grammes, second.
5. Unangst returns from inauguration, full of wild visions of a big city.
6. Muhlenberg 28, St. Peters 21. Rohr is seen running! !
7. Pennsylvania Military Academy tunes us down with the score of 15-13. Freshies beat Sophs again.
8. New Jap arrives. Temperature in refectory takes a sudden jump. Scotta sharpens his pen-knife.
9. Japs have it out. Scotta sees visions of green and purple dragons; the new arrival sees stars. (This phase of astronomy is not offered by Dr. Bauman.)
10. First call for track candidates.
11. Bomb throwing in the commons: Russians vs. Slavs. Fritz says he is "not used to that kind of a thing."
12. Sophomore Banquet at the Allen. "Me thinketh that in yon deep hole may be glimpsed sundry fragments of various sophomore beds." Truly a hard world, to return at 3:30 A. M. to rough-housed rooms.
13. Wichmann misses last car from Slatington and ambles back on foot.
14. Comforting little Logic quiz for the Juniors, administered by Brother Ettinger, in the absence of Brother Haas.
15. Muhlenberg 69, P. C. P. 27. Fry wins honorable mention at the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest.
16. Easter festival in chapel.
17. Reisner gets three letters all at once, and goes about singing "Twee Twaa Twee Twaa Twaa Twaa."
18. Last Glee Club rehearsal before the New York trip.

19. Ground cut for the new dormitories. Mose cracks a joke. Easter recess begins. Final preparations made for the Glee Club trip touching Brooklyn, Kingston, Albany, Utica, and Palmerton. All beat it for home and mother.
29. Glee Club returns. Recitals of many a wild escapade. Much seeking after sleep.
30. Fellows begin to drift back. Fascinating fact: temperature at 3:19 P. M. was $71\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$.
31. College opens. General rebellious spirit concerning work.

APRIL.

1. Morgan leaves Muhlenberg $100,000.00! ! ! Preparations on foot for a celebration. (This is April first.)
2. Unusually hard rain. Very apropos as on April 2, B. C. 3317, Noah entered the Ark.
3. Horn attends chapel—singing unusually lusty. Great lecture: "Complete Living."
4. Glee Club leaves for Lancaster. Dr. Haas, in Logic, pointing to three vacant seats, spoke as follows, saying: "That one's goose is Cooked; that other man's goose is Fried, and this man's goose is Boyled." "And his mouth was filled with laughter."
5. Work on new Dorms making headway. Very inspiring sunset.
6. Great day to go to church.
7. Track work progressing. Spring fever bug prevalent.
8. Glee Club at Nazareth. Boyle gives an impromptu speech entitled: "The Longest and Most Expensive Route from Utica, N. Y., to Palmerton, Pa."
9. Splendid lecture: "World Federation." Anti-swearing societies consolidate.
10. Glee Club leaves for Hamburg, Reading and Gibraltar.
11. Freshmen beat A. H. S. in baseball, 5-3. Leisey stays in all evening. No, he didn't appear to be sick.
12. Hemsath's shirt—the green one, with pink stripes—undergoes cremation.
13. "The rain, it raineth all around," but still we go to church?
14. Fry makes an impassioned address on the campus, entitled: "Hamburg."
15. Der Junior Ausflug. The third mile stone in four.
16. Members of the Dramatic Association see "The House Next Door."
17. Parker is heard mumbling to himself: "In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."
18. The editor of this calendar regrets that he will not have opportunity to dilate upon the blessed month of May. Mystic Ten Banquet.
19. To-morrow will be the 20th of April, but all this will be on the way to the printer, hence to-morrow will go down in history unnoted. Vale.

RETROSPECT AND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

IN the 1914 Ciarla, the staff of editors, artists, photographers and business managers, have striven to tell something new concerning Old Muhlenberg (for she will soon celebrate her fiftieth anniversary), of her current history of growth, achievement and progress, and to picture these things by well chosen drawings and photographs. Not only is this book a reflector of college life during the past year, but it has been a means of developing latent talent in the men who have worked upon it, and perchance the experience gained will be of value in the years to come. We have earnestly sought in the section devoted to "Who's Who Among the Alumni" to foster in our readers a deepening and broadening conception of what our Alma Mater's sons have accomplished and the diversity of their service to this great country.

To come to acknowledgments: The editor wishes specially to call attention to the excellent work of our class photographer, Mock. The editor believes that Mock's work betrays the hand of the master in a conscientious application of scientific principles. His pictures speak for themselves. The drawings of our artists, Bucks, Bieber, Heilman, Taylor and Ziemer for originality of conception and execution need no comment from the editor—they also speak for themselves. The assistant and associate editors have shown themselves thoroughly alive to the possibilities of their positions on the staff. They are deserving of the highest praise for sacrifice of time in the production of a record book worthy of the fair name of the college and her many sons; and above all, we must concede to the business managers, the indefatigable Seidel, Jensen and Bausch, the position of fathers of the 1914 Ciarla, because their efforts have secured the money indispensable in its publication. To their names we wish to add those of Leisey, Heuer and Heilman, who, although with the exception of the last mentioned are not members of the staff, have materially assisted the business managers and editor.

Finally, the editor wishes to make particular and direct acknowledgment of the kind, thoughtful and invaluable suggestions of Professor Reese to the members of the staff and particularly to the artists.

We wish to express our appreciation in addition to that expressed by the business managers, to the business men whose public spirit prompted them to liberal advertising in the pages following this one.

"When the years are fleeting by you,
And your memory is not keen,
Just re-read this kind endeavor
Of the class of Old Fourteen."

THE EDITOR.

THE END

OPEN LETTER TO STUDENTS

THE financial success of the publication of a college annual depends upon the advertisements. The public spirited men who advertise are deserving of your patronage. Without the advertisements "The Ciarla" could not be published. Business men who enable college publications to exist should reap the benefits of their advertising. Reciprocity, the principle of mutual rights and benefits, is our policy. Patronize those who patronize you. Make special note of those who advertise in "The Ciarla" and make your purchases from them. Is that not a fair request? Read and reread our advertisements and always remember the business men to whom a very large portion of the success of "The Ciarla" may be attributed.

The Life of David G. Broderick

By JERIMIAH LYNCH

In this vivid and life-like biography the figure of California's early Senator emerges in clear lines—a bold, stalwart figure of great courage, and with the hardihood that characterized the early period of California's history.

The story of David C. Broderick is bound up with one of the most picturesque and interesting periods of American history. Mr. Lynch traces the career of the Senator of California in the stirring days of the early fifties when the West was in the making. The story closes with the tragic death of Senator Broderick at the hands of D. S. Terry.

Manufactured 20 Years

Manufacturers of Portland cement are sufficiently informed as to the disposition of the 50,000,000 Barrels of their annual product; but the general public do not know the manifold uses to which it is being applied

THE DRAGON PORTLAND CEMENT

pamphlet, just issued, will tell something of what it is used for and where marketed.

This brand has been manufactured for 20 years and used in more than 1,600 different cities and towns in the United States. For practical fineness, satisfactory strength, uniform soundness and sand-carrying capacity Dragon is equal to the best.
